GONE WITH "TEDDY."

Miss Lillian Russell, the Actress, Leaves Suddenly for Europe.

Ed. Solomon, the Composer of "Billee Taylor," Goes with Her—A Broken Engagement and the Discomfiture of Manager McCaull—Miss Lillian's Salary and Extravagance.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 8.—Miss Lillian Russell, the favorite prima donna, left New York for London yesterday without issuing any pour prendre conge cards, by the Lydian Monarch. She was accompanied by Mr. Edward Solomon, the composer of "Billee Taylor," "Claude Duval" and "Virginia," who, with a degree of courage to the expression of which words are inadequate, will sooner or later have to introduce her as a third Mrs. Solomon to at least two precursory incumbents of that respectable title. The departure of Miss Russell was characteristically sudden, although her present managers have long been prepared for any eccentricity on her part. As a member of the McCaull Opera Company, to which she returned after much litigation and several emphatic vows that she would never sing with it again, she received $300 a week. She was, besides this salary, paid $150 for her appearance in "sacred concert" every Sunday night at the Casino. There is no young lady of the operatic stage who receives anything like as

MUCH MONEY,

and Miss Russell has long been, in consequence, an object of envy to all her artistic sisters. The engagement with Col. McCaull was to have expired on Saturday night, and she contracted to appear at the Bijou Theater, in Boston, as soon as she had finished at the Casino. Her Boston reappearance was to have been made in "Iolanthe." By a curious coincidence Mr. Solomon was to have conducted the performances of an operatic company at an opposition theater. Although her managers had been for some time prepared for an abrupt cessation of Miss Russell's connection with the Casino, they were none the less surprised by the celerity of her departure. Mr. Jesse Williams, the conductor and stage manager of the company to which she belonged, was the first to learn of her flight. Late yesterday afternoon he met one of the clerks of the Monarch Line of English steamers who happened to remark: "By the way, your prima donna left by our ship this morning, didn't she?"

"What prima donna?" inquired Mr. Williams, with natural curiosity.

"Why, Lillian Russell," replied the Monarchist.

"Lillian Russell? Impossible!" protested Mr. William. "She sings at the Casino tonight."

"She'll sing on the high seas to-night," the clerk answered, hotly. "I tell you she and Solomon sailed for England in the Lydian Monarch to-day."

It took Mr. Williams a few minutes to convey to the Casino. Inquiry was promptly made by Mr. Samuel Grau and Mr. McCaull and the report was soon confirmed. On the pretext that she intended to be photographed, the fugitive enchantress sent to the Casino on Wednesday afternoon for her trunks. She was going to be portrayed in character, and she needed her dresses. The unsuspecting manager consented to the removal of the baggage. It was taken to 25 West Twenty-seventh street, next door to the Leland House, whence at daybreak, with the fascinating Mr. Solomon to keep her company, she proceeded on board the Lydian Monarch. When a reporter of the World arrived at the Casino, half an hour before the beginning of last night's performance of the "Princess of Trebizonde," he found the management of that beautiful theater in a condition bordering on actual collapse.

THE DIRE TIDINGS

THE GALLANT COLONEL M'CAULL,

pale with apprehension of the consequences, was marking time with rapidly alternating feet in the lobby. Mr. Samuel Grau was tearfully contemplating the box sheet, and Mr. Tracy was involuntarily playing the dead march in "Saul" with his fingers on the top of a very depressed plug hat. "She's gone at last," cried the managerial trio with one voice. It was some time before Mr. Grau was able to tell the sorrowful story from the point of view of the box-office. "You see," said he sadly, "we were all fixed for her. We felt morally certain she'd make an unexpected break sooner or later, and, though we did not not look for such a jump as it turned out, we were not put in quite as big a hole as she intended. Nearly a month ago we quietly instructed Miss Louise Paullin to understudy her parts, and the result is the performance goes on to-night just as if nothing had happened."

"How did Miss Russell leave you pecuniarily?"

"We are left by Miss Russell to the extent only replied Mr. Grau. "There was one time when she was two weeks ahead of her salary, but we've been catching up with the overdraft ever since. On consulting the books I find she only owes us half a dollar, which I need not add is unexpectedly little. I can't make out what she has been doing with her money. She got a tremendous salary, and yet every week the day after she was paid she'd come to the office and draw $10, $20, $30, $50 ahead. I tell you she's a caution as a money spender."

OF FIFTY CENTS,"

"Was she living with her mother at the time of her elopement?"

"No," replied Mr. Grau, "sometime ago she told me she was happier than she had ever been before. She had left her mother and sister to look out for themselves, and 'Teddy' that's Solomon, had turned out to be the best husband she ever had."

"What is she going to do in Europe?"

"I'm blest if I know," returned the candid Mr. Grau, "and I don't think she knows either. Salaries in London are not one-quarter of what they are here, even supposing that she's got an engagement. It's

ALL A MYSTERY TO ME.

I can't even make out where they raised the money to get away with. She never had a cent to bless herself with, as I just told you, and Solomon was always in trouble pecuniarily. He has a certain standing as an orchestral conductor in London, but the two of them won't make in a month what she used to receive every week from the treasury of this theater."

"Had you no intimation of their purpose?"

"None that I can recall," said Mr. Grau, "except that in a conversation with Solomon the other night he asked me to take a drink with him. For some extraordinary reason which I can't recollect at present, I refused. 'You'd better come,' he said, 'for there's no telligg how long I'll be here to ask you.' It was evident that he had it in his mind then that he was going to make a rush for Europe." The high contract breaking parties to this interesting story have enjoyed quite a good deal of gratuitous newspaper advertising for the last two years. Miss Lillian Russell is a plump and pleasing person of

THE BLONDE TYPE

and the daughter of Mrs. Cynthia Leonard, a well-known advocate of what is known as "woman's rights." Her father is a master printer in Chicago with an extremely profitable business. Mrs. Leonard, her mother, was separated from her husband some time ago and has ever since remained apart from him with her three daughters. Miss Lillian, whose real name is Helen, married, when quite young, Mr. Harry Braham, a brother of Mr. Dave Braham, the composer of the music of Harrigan's songs and leader of the orchestra at Harrigan & Hart's Theater. Her husband persuaded Mr. Tony Pastor to bring her out as a ballad singer. Just before her engagement with Mr. Pastor had expired she disappeared much in the same manner as yesterday, and was not rediscovered until her season with Colonel McCaull came due. After playing for some time in "The Sorcerer," at the Bijou, she was taken seriously ill. Then followed a series of lawsuits, scandals and disputes, and in proper time the reappearance of the charming and erratic songstress at the Casino.

MR. SOLOMON

is a small, boyish-looking Englishman, with a round, smooth face, and a very innocent expression. He is a remarkably clever musician, his ballads being particularly original and artistic. Miss Russell was so impressed by his "Silver King," a song from his "Lord Bateman," that, being a very susceptible young person, she immediately fell in love with him. It is said, however, that, young and unsophisticated as he looks, Mr. Solomon has a wife and two children in London, the confusion of his family relations being further aggravated by a recent quarrel with a Miss Edith Blande, whom he had also introduced to New York society as his lawful consort. His sudden flight is looked upon as an exceedingly stupid mistake, inasmuch as his opera, "The White Sergeant," was to be produced at the Bijou Opera-house very shortly. In London he only ranks as a second rate orchestral conductor.

MISSOURI MATTERS.

Governor Crittenden on the Hermann Lynching—Burglary at Springfield—News Notes.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 8.—Governor Crittenden yesterday wrote a letter to Judge A. J. Seay, of the Ninth Judicial Circuit, in which he suggests the propriety of an early investigation by the Grand Jury of the Hermann, Gasconade county, lynching, urging that the offenders should be brought to a speedy trial and certain punishment. He also addressed another letter to Prosecuting Attorney E. Nowenhahn, of Gasconade county, in which he reviews the circumstances of the lynching, characterizes it as a high-handed and disgraceful proceeding and as a stigma upon the fair fame of Gasconade county. He urges that it should be demonstrated that such outrages can not be perpetrated with impunity in Missouri, and, calling attention to the fact that the Globe-Democrat has charged that the mob was composed of persons residing outside of Gasconade county, says that if this be true the citizens and officers of that county owe it to themselves to vindicate it by bringing the guilty ones to justice. In closing he trusts that a thorough investigation of the matter will be immediately begun and asks for the prosecuting attorney's views of the facts.

UNDER THE SHERIFF'S NOSE.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 8.—Wednesday night Wm. French's boarding home on Seventh street was entered by burglars, who stole a $150 watch and $20 from J. M. Jarrett, about $30 from Wm. French, and articles of jewelry from other occupants of the house. Mr. Jarrett was a member of the jury engaged in the trial of J. L. Smith, charged with murder in the second degree, who were passing the night in the house under charge of Deputy Sheriff Davis.

A FRACTURED SKULL.

LINNEUS, Mo., June 8.—W. T. Owens was struck on the head with a twenty-pound weight by B. T. Jones, whom he was about to assault with a knife. The trouble arose from a horse trade made by Owens when he was drunk, and witnessed by Jones. Owens' skull was fractured and he will die. Jones is in custody.

BURNED DOWN.

TROY, Mo., June 8.—Deputy Postmaster G. G. Henkey's residence was burned down Wednesday night. An exploding coal oil lamp caused the fire.

THE STATE UNIVERSITY.

COLUMBIA, Mo., June 8.—The commencement exercises yesterday closed the forty-first session of the State University. Prizes were awarded as follows: The Stephens medal for oratory, Senior class, Paul Alexander, Paris, Mo.; the McAnally Medal, for best English essay on Robert Burns, John C. Luggett, New York; the Laws medal, astronomy, S. P. Reynolds, Callaway. The attendance during the year was 491, of whom 78 were ladies.

American Medical Association.

CLEVELAND, O., June 8.—At the closing session of the American Medical Association, a resolution was introduced by Surgeon-General Keller that in the very near future, if not now, cremation will become a sanitary necessity in large cities and populous districts. It was referred to the section on hygiene. The committee on surgical service aboard ocean vessels was appointed as follows: Drs. A. N. Bell, New York; A. L. Gihon, U. S. Navy; I. N. Quinby, New Jersey; H. C. Marcy, Massachusetts; H. H. Smith, Pennsylvania. A resolution by Dr. Turnbull, of Philadelphia, to petition Legislatures to enact laws requiring all railway employes to be examined with reference to acuteness of hearing before taking charge of any train on a track, was laid over under the rule until the next meeting.

A Boy Tried for Arson.

CINCINNATI, June 8.—John Bittner, Jr., fifteen years old, is on trial before Mayor Lord, of Riverside, for arson, being charged with burning the Debus cooperage works in April, 1882, entailing a loss of $100,000. Two witnesses testified that the boy told them he set the place on fire; that he made two attempts before and two since; that his object was to get a rest. He was employed in the factory.

Three Powder Mills Blown Up.

NEWBURG, N. Y., June 8.—The three powder mills of Laflin & Rand were blown up yesterday by lightning. One man was killed. Loss $10,000. Work will be suspended a month.

A Phenomenal Trotter.

CLEVELAND, June 8.—At the races this afternoon Pilgrim, with no record, trotted an exhibition mile, making the last half in 1:07¾.

HELD A PRISONER.

The Grievance of Dr. Abel Shin, Secretary to Bishop Volentest.

A Gentleman Who has Traveled Half Around the World Forbidden to Land in New York—A Customs Officer Interrupts the Journey of the Bishop of Paleopolis.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 8.—Among the passengers who arrived from Rio de Janeiro by the steamer Finance yesterday was the Rt. Rev. Simon Volentest, Bishop of Paleopolis and Vicar Apostolic of Honan, China, accompanied by his secretary, Dr. Abel Shin, a Chinaman by birth, and a missionary named Lorenzo Santeni. When the vessel arrived off quarantine, the Custom-house officer, whose name is not known, boarded the steamer, and upon learning that Dr. Shin was not a citizen of this country forbade his landing upon American shores. In vain the bishop protested that the party were en route for San Francisco, where they were to take the steamer for China, and that Dr. Shin did not intend to settle here. The officer declared that should Dr. Shin upon American shores it would be a direct violation of the Chinese immigration act, and that the party would suffer the consequences should any such violation of the law occur. The steamer proceeded up to her pier at Roberts' stores, Brooklyn, where the information that Dr. Shin should not be allowed to land had already been received, and the Custom-house officers on the pier kept Dr. Shin a prisoner on board of the vessel. Bishop Volentest, after endeavoring to explain to the officers that Dr. Shin was not an immigrant, gave up the case. It was too late to see the collector at New York, and after a long consultation with the officers of the vessel it was decided to drop the matter until to-day. In the meantime, Dr. Shin was not allowed to set his foot upon the dock and was compelled to pass the hours as he best could, the Bishop and Father Santeni finally left the steamer to visit Cardinal McClosky, promising to return in the morning. The matter is looked upon as an outrage by the officers of the steamer, who claim that the law regarding Chinese immigration does not apply to transient travelers. The Custom-house officials in reference to the matter, except that everything will be settled to-day. Dr. Shin is forty-eight years of age and his height is about six feet. His complexion is very dark, much more than is usually noticed among his countrymen, which is ascribed to the atmosphere of Brazil, where he has resided for the past six months. His hair is slightly silvered but he stands erect. He speaks Italian fluently. He is a teacher by occupation. He does not know why he is detained aboard the steamer but places great confidence in Bishop Volentest, who he says will liberate him from his prison, as he terms it. Bishop Volentest could not be found yesterday, but Dr. Shin said: "Bishop Volentest is an Italian, about sixty years of age, who went to China about twenty years ago to educate the Chinese into the Catholic religion. He settled in Honan, in the province of Paleopolis, where he assumed the manners and customs of the Empire and began his work. He converted thousands to the Catholic faith, and was or Vicar Apostolic of Honan. About five years ago he determined to visit his own country once more, as well as other points in the old world." At that time Dr. Shin held a high post under him and was working hard to convert his countrymen to the faith. "Having expressed a desire to visit Italy," Dr. Shin said, "I was installed in the position of private secretary. We traveled all over Europe and visited Rome, where we resided for two years. During this time I had two audiences with the Pope and received a blessing. At Rome we were joined by Lorenzo Santeni, who desired to go to China and aid in the good work. We then visited Spain and Portugal and thence took the steamer to Brazil, where the Bishop wished to look after several missions which had been established in the interior of that country. He remained there about six months and, having determined to complete a trip around the world, took passage in the steamer Finance for this city."

SET HIS FOOT

WILL SAY NOTHING

SOON MADE HIGH PRIEST

CROOK SAFE.

He is Encamped Thirty Miles From Vacori.

Latest Information States That He Has Not Yet Met the Hostile Indians—His Plans—A History of the Expedition.

CHICAGO, June 8.—A Tombstone special by courier from Mexico relates that Crook is encamped thirty miles northeast of Vacori, from which point he is sending scouts out in all directions, but up to the time of the departure of the courier he had been unsuccessful in discovering any signs of Indians. Capt. Casomas' company of Mexican regulars have left Oposeura, Sonora, to join Crook. They number 150 men. If Crook accomplishes anything it must be by May 20, as the rainy season will have then set in and the streams in the mountains will be so swollen as to prevent their passage by troops.

HISTORY OF THE EXPEDITION.

Early in the present year the murderous raids of the Apaches upon the northern frontier settlements of Mexico were the cause of earnest discussion between the United States and the Mexican authorities. It was decided that a terrible example should be made of the offending redskins, and Gen. George Crook, the distinguished Indian fighter, was chosen as being exactly adapted for the campaign to be undertaken. The Chiricahuan Apaches, according to Gen. Crook, are an incorrigible lot. In the space of ten years they have killed not less than one thousand persons in this country and in Mexico. They constantly stirred up strife among the agency Indians, and were the terror of the border. Gen. Crook organized his forces at Whipple Barracks, A. T. He left Wilcox, his department headquarters, on or about April 22. He had with him about two hundred reservation Apache scouts and one troop of cavalry, with a few white scouts and trailers. His cavalry was supposed to consist of two companies of the Third and one company of the Sixth. He had a pack train of forty mules carrying a supply of provisions for thirty days. He also had with him a captured Chiricahua who agreed to act as his guide. He also had old Indian warriors who have themselves in years past been on the war-path against Mexicans into and from the very heart of this stupendous range of the Sierra Madre. He started from Bernardino Springs, A. T., on May 4 in pursuit of the savages. Owing to their familiarity with the mountain fastnesses the task of discovering and dislodging the Indians was obviously one of difficulty and uncertainty. According to Gen. Guerra, the Mexican commander, the total number of hostiles in the field was about 300, composed of Juh's band and the bands of Locos and Chatos. Gen. Guerra, on May 20, sent a column of 250 men, under command of Lieut.-Col. Emilio Galardo, to advance from Casa Grande into the Sierra Madre Mountains to Gen. Crook's support. The hostile Indians were lodged in the northern apex of the Sierra Madre divide that marks the boundary between Chihuahua and Sonora.

Springfield Legislature.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., June 8.—It is expected that the Harper high license bill will be pushed to a passage in the Illinois House to-day. The advocates of high license yesterday, after a sharp parliamentary fight succeeded in making this bill in connection with a few others the special order, and it is now confidently predicted that the measure when brought to a vote will be passed. In the Senate the elevated railway bill designed to prevent the taking possession of streets without the consent of property owners, received a set back which promises to prevent its enactment at the present session.

THE NIHILISTS AT WORK.

BERLIN, June 8.—Advices have been received that a meeting of thirty Nihilists was held in St. Petersburg last week which the police endeavored to surprise. The Nihilists received timely warning and fled, taking a printing press and the type. This incident, it is said, prevented the appearance of the prepared number of the Nihilist paper, The Will of the People, and only a small edition was issued.

Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 8.—The Porte recently informed Gen. Wallace, the United States Minister, that the commercial treaty between Turkey and America would terminate March 13, 1884. The Turkish tariff expired on the same date of the present year. After the termination of the treaty the importation of all American meats, lard and similar produce will be prohibited. The Porte has virtually increased the duties on spirits by compelling their storage at Smyrna. It also maintains a demand relative to the storage of petroleum. No American delegate has been appointed to negotiate with Turkey concerning the new tariff, although the appointment of one has been twice presented. Gen. Wallace protested that the measures are arbitrary, and that the claims of the American Government, under the treaty of 1830, are entitled to the most favorable national treatment.

The relations between the Sultan and General Wallace continue friendly. The former has ordered the payment of all private claims of Americans on Turkey, and claims amounting to £38,000 have already been paid.

A BLOODY FIGHT.

CATTARO, DALMATIA, June 8.—A force of 200 Turkish regulars, marching to Sipeanik, were attacked and murdered on the 1st instant by a body of Holtis. The accounts received here say that sanguinary fighting took place on the 2d and 3d inst., in Albania, between Turkish troops under the command of Aysim Pasha and a body of Castratis. The Turks are reported to have lost 1,300 men and the Castratis 500.

WASHINGTON.

Star Route Trial.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 8.—Merrick continued his address in the Star Route case, confining his remarks, for the most part, to the question of a division of routes. He maintained that no division of plunder could free the defendants from the crime committed, or terminate the conspiracy, and he declared the proof was incontrovertible of a complete division on April 1, 1879. If he had established the existence of conspiracy on that day he had conformed to the charge in the indictment.

Merrick closed his argument in the Star Route case and the court adjourned until Monday. It is believed the case will go to the jury Tuesday afternoon.

Cadet Leopold's Case.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—In the Court of Claims argument was heard upon a motion at the instance of Secretary Chandler to reopen the case of Cadet Engineer Leopold vs. the United States, and allow it to remain in abeyance until the December term, the decision to be rendered Monday. After the arguments upon this motion were concluded, a second motion was filed praying for a rehearing of the case upon the ground that great injustice was done the United States by the former judgment.

A SWEET SINGER.

Developments of the Standard Opera Company's Engagement.

An Allegation that Duff's Troupe got Drunk—A Sharp Reply to a Legal Suit.

An answer was filed this morning in the Circuit Court by Jones & Delano in behalf of Manager Chas. Pope to the suit of Manager Duff, of the Standard Opera Company. An agreement was entered into between Manager Duff and Treasurer Dickson, of Pope's, for the Standard Opera Company to appear the week of April 23; manager Duff to receive sixty-five per cent. of the gross receipts, and manager Pope becoming guarantee or surety for the sum of $2,000, representing the plaintiff's business for the week. The defendant denies that $900 represents the sum due manager Duff on account of the week's business. Manager Pope admits that the Standard Opera Company, of which plaintiff was manager and proprietor, was a troupe composed of many fine artists; that among the members of said company was one George Sweet, a baritone soloist of fame and renown; that said company had played at Pope's Theater the week preceding April 23, during all of which time Sweet had at each performance taken leading parts, and had, by his exquisite singing, contributed largely to the success of the performances, and had greatly increased the attendance at the theater. The contract embraced the services of Sweet, but the defendant, wholly unmindful of his agreement, refused to cause Sweet to appear or sing at the performances given the week of April 23. The performances were poorly rendered, and were unsatisfactory to the patrons of the theater. The defendant further alleges that the plaintiff suffered and allowed divers and sundry members of the Standard Company to appear upon the stage of the theater at different times during the week in an intoxicated condition, therefore causing the performance to be jeered and laughed at, causing many patrons and persons in the audience to leave the house. The defendant alleges that during said week it was a notorious fact to the community that Sweet had absented himself from the performances, and that various members of the company appeared at the performances in an intoxicated and almost imbecile condition, causing numbers of persons to remain away. Many persons called at the box-office and ascertained that Sweet would not sing, and on that account refrained from purchasing tickets. The defendant avers that he ought not to be held or bound in any sum whatever for the failure to keep the contract.

Small size only Ten Dollars.

ALL QUIET.

No Trouble at the Coal Mines Reported To-Day.

There was an anxious night spent at Collinsville. Doc Anthony, the game deputy sheriff from East St. Louis, picketed all the roads leading to the Abbey mines, and the provisional military corps, composed of employees, E. J. Crandall commanding, lay on their arms all night. There was no attack, nor were there any unusual number of strikers noticed in the streets of Collinsville. The resident strikers did not anticipate any invasion. This morning a rumor gained circulation that the mob had marched toword Staunton, which is on the Wabash Railroad, in Macoupin county. Here are found the Ellsworth mines, owned by Jay Gould, and worked to supply the Gould roads with coal. The Warden and Mount Olive mines are also in that vicinity. About 200 men have signed an agreement to go to work on Monday, and that is probably the cause of the movement in that direction.

Con Reinecke, the owner of the mine near West Belleville, where the collision between the strikers and the militia occurred last Monday week, was in the city this morning. He had satisfied himself that the miners of West Belleville were off on a tramp. He believed that they are hiding in the woods near the various machine mines and is very apprehensive of Molly Maguire work.

It is thought by some that the mob have marched towards Pinckneyville, in Perry county, where about thirty miners arrested for riotous conduct are in jail in default of $200 bail demanded. Emil Donk, of Donk Brothers, says that the people of that section are aroused against the miners, and that any lawless demonstration in that section will provoke a bloody resistance. Mr. Gartside, of the Gartside Coal Company, on the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad, met the mob on the rock road yesterday. They were carrying banners on which were inscribed: flaming sentiments. Telegraphic advices from White Oak, near Marissa, on the Cairo Short Line, report that the mines are running without interruption. The mob has not been seen. A telegraphic message from Belleville at one o'clock denies that any considerable number of miners are absent. The correspondent of the POST-DISPATCH at Collinsville telegraphs this afternoon: "Everything is very quiet at the mines this morning, in fact too quiet. It is reliably reported that miners are still on the war-path, and between Belleville and Collinsville. Mines here are still prepared for trouble, and are anticipating it every hour. There is no telling what the next twenty-four hours will bring forth. Heintz Bluff, Confidence and Abbey's No. 3 and 4 are in full blast, and there are a few men at work at Lumaghi's.

TABLEAUX, TOO.

The Veiled Prophet's Intention for October.

An Appendix to the Annual Ball Which Will be of Surpassing Beauty—An Interview With the Mysterious Suzerain of Khorassan.

It was about four o'clock yesterday afternoon that a palmer in orders gray, bearing in his hat a cockleshell that he had brought from the Holy Land, and a staff that he had cut from among the cedars on Mount Lebanon, mounted the stairs of the POST-DISPATCH office and said he wished to see a scribe. One was pointed out to him, and the pilgrim dusted off a chair with the skirt of his robe and seated himself. He looked long and earnestly at the reporter, and finally said: "Seven hundred and fifty years have I dwelt in this vale of tears, and never yet, by my halidom, have I gazed upon so frank and ingenuous a countenance. Fair youth, thy face impels me to trust thee implicitly." The reporter remarked that people had frequently noticed the same thing, and the pilgrim went on: "I am charged by the Mystic Council of the Municipal Vehm-Gericht to lead a neophyte within our arcanum, that he may see and tell the things which the immortals are preparing for St. Louis." The scribe shuddered as the chill hand of the stranger touched him, but mastering himself he said, "I am ready; lead on, I'll follow thee."

A carriage was standing at the doorway, into which the pair were introduced. The blinds were pulled down, and in a short time the reporter lost all trace of the direction which he was pursuing. He was at last hoodwinked and taken into a house, up seventeen marble stairs, and into an apartment where the foot sank an inch deep into the soft carpet. When the handkerchief was removed the blaze of light for a moment was blinding. On every side alabaster lamps, instinct with electricity, flooded the chamber with a brilliant yet hazy splendor. The furniture might have been taken bodily from the Sultan's palace at Stamboul. It was rosewood and sandalwood, covered with a foam of laces, floating on a lake of velvet. A number of men covered with veils passed in and out. Others reclined on the sofas smoking nargiles. The faint odor of hasheesh filled the air. From a cage depending from the ceiling, a colony of bulbuls filled the air with melody. In a throne, which seemed to have been cut out of one great emerald, sat

THE VEILED PROPHET.

Around him a throng of slaves waved fans made of the feathers of birds of paradise, while others swung censers before him, wherein burned all the spices of Arabia Felix. The scene was one to be imprinted on the memory forever. The prophet's veil was a gauzy stream of spun glass, which while he remained in perfect stillness permitted one to make out the lineaments of the noble countenance beneath. The grace of immortality sat upon the brow, which was that of a young man scarce twenty. The eyes burned with a lambent light which, although austere, was benevolent. Below a cascade of dark brown beard fell over the jeweled breast. "Tremble not," said the potentate to the embarrassed scribe, "but approach. How goeth affairs in our good city of St. Louis?"

"Always sadly in your absence, sire; the people long for your return. They feel that one night in the year is all too small to show their homage and their love."

A smile lit up the solemn royal countenance. "I will favor you beyond mortal man. This night you shall dip into the future and see the wonders that will be. But my vow forbids me to speak my message. Slave, bring me a telepsych."

The telepsych was brought, a complicated arrangement of wires coming out of a galvanic battery and terminating in two golden knobs. The Prophet took one of these and pressed it to his forehead, intimating by a gesture that the scribe was to imitate the movement. He did so, and in a moment his earthly vision closed, and he saw mentally all that was passing in the mind of his princely host. A great pageant was making its way slowly through a densely packed mass of people, the flame from a hundred thousand torches burnt redly in the night, and was reflected sparkling back from point of lance and sheen of cuirass, from jewel and crystal, from the treasures of the world. The old story that is old as the Aryan blood was pictured before him. Pictures seen in the nursery stepped from their frames and passed by in solemn progress on the streets. The vision changed, and in the midst of the strains of inspiring music the prophet's ball unrolled like a fairy panorama before the expectant spectator. But the ball was not all; the midnight waned to morning and the rivals did not cease. The throngs sought a brief rest from the excitement of the night, and then prepared for further wonders. All day long the hurrying hair dressers ran from mansion to mansion in the west. Milliners and maids, with flying fingers, were decking beauty for the crowning triumph of the year.

"What means this?" the scribe whispered.

"It means that in 1883 the Prophet will extend his visit to the loyal city of his love. Instead of passing through on his road to the sunset with the Autumnal Equinox, he will remain so that the burghers may pay court to him. But look again."

The scene had changed to the auditorium of a theater. Row on row and pile on pile the seats were crowded with fair women and brave men. Toilets lovelier than a poet's dream set off loveliness angelic. All that wealth could do for beauty was there; the flash of diamonds the sheen of silks and the blaze of the brightest eyes in the world, all contributed to give the gathering an indescribable charm. On the stage were going forward tableaux, echos of the ideas that made the street the night before rich as the cavern that Aladdin found. A string of poesy caught each picture in a flower chain binding all into a romantic tale. Prettier than the diamonds but less pleasing than the sparkling eyes were the showers of buds and blossoms that fell ever and anon from the canopy upon the throng beneath. At the pauses trained choristers brought to do honor to the revels even from the shores of the far Atlantic, made the air melodious with their art divine. Ushers faultlessly attired in the livery of his Highness passed about handing to each of the ladies a souvenir from his mysterious Highness' foamy bundles of satin and silver that provoked a pearly chorus of delighted "Ohs!" from lips the sweetest in Christendom. "And now," whispered the solemn voice of the Prophet, "my chancellor will tell you the rest."

"The rest is but little; what you have seen is all His Highness has deigned to permit us to extend. the revels beyond the night of the pageant. The theater will, for the night of the tableaux, be the property of the order. The good citizens of St. Louis, who desire to witness the magnificence and wealth of Ormus and of Ind upon the stage, will signify their humble wishes just as is done at the ball. Those who are elected for this high honor will receive checks sealed with the imperial signet, which will permit them to enter into our company. The souvenirs will only be given to each fair lady who is present and to no one else. Unfortunately there is no theater able to hold as many of our loyal subjects as the great Hall of Commerce does, so that many of those who will be admitted with pleasure at the ball will be unable to secure admission to the conclusion of the revels. This sad fact we deplore and a year hence will remedy."

"And shall I tell anything of rules laid down by his mysterious excellence?"

"None farther than that the Veiled Prophet commands that all who come shall honor him by appearing in court costume at his court. The ladies will please him by pleasing themselves with all the aids that art can lend to beauty, the gentlemen in customary suit of solemn black. The great Prophet hath spoken—tremble and obey!"

Two hours later the scribe found himself in his luxurious couch at home, doubting whether it was a gorgeous dream, or whether it were truth itself. The largesse of the prophet, however, a couple of pecks of rubies and sapphires which were strewn about the premises, convinced him that he had been indeed in Golconda, face to face with the weird Suzerain of Khorassan.

The Insurance Oyster.

The customary call upon the Circuit Judges prior to long vacation made by counsel fattening over the insurance wrecks for allowance of services was led off to-day by Judge Horatio Jones. He asks Judge Thayer for $2,000 balance of a fee of $3,500 for services in a suit of the Columbia estate against the Life Association estate. The case was defended successfully. Expert testimony of counsel employed in the insurance litigation was introduced as usual.

To-Day's Judgments.

The following judgments were rendered to-day in the Circuit Courts: John W. Trisler vs. Phœbe A. Riley and George M. Riley, judgment for $363 38; Emanuel Schwerin, et. al., vs. L. Bullen vs. August Miller, judgment for plaintiff for $525 69; R. L. Parker vs. J. O. Mellen, judgment for defendant for $1,325 49; Isaac Miller vs. Ewald Lungstras jet. al., judgment for $4,578.92.

RAILROAD NEWS.

Local Matters of Interest Gleaned in Railroad Circles To-Day.

Col. Wm. Shaw, he of high collar fame, was in the city this morning.

Fred Ellison, claim agent of the Vandalia Line, came in this morning.

The Vandalia hauled 1,950 passengers on the main line last Wednesday.

C. M. Hays, private secretary to Col. A. A. Talmage, is off on an excursion trip.

S. E. Crance, superintendent of the St. Louis division of the C., B. & Q., is in town to-day.

Col. A. A. Talmage, general transportation manager of the Missouri, returned last night from a trip over the road.

The Cairo Short Line is very vain over the regular schedule time of fifty-seven hours she is making on fast freight shipments from New Orleans to St. Louis.

The round-trip excursion rates to the Santa Fe Tutio Millenial Celebration, which promises to be the grandest thing of the kind ever known in the southwest, have been fixed by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe at $43 65 from Missouri River points.

The St. L. K. & N. W. will take out to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, a special train load, eight cars, of Turners for the gathering at Quincy on Sunday and Monday. The regular train to-morrow evening will also have several special cars for the same purpose.

From a first-class source it is learned that the Memphis and Little Rock will remain in the hands of Receiver Sibley until next fall, by which time it is thought it will have worked its way out of financial straits. It is pretty generally understood that the Gould system will at that time take the Memphis and Little Rock out of the wet. The system is the heaviest creditor.

The C., B. & Q. is credited with several late changes in the joint western classification that are of special interest to St. Louis merchants. The changes to be made are on manufactured tobacco and pickles and will go into effect June 15. Plug tobacco in crates of less than 75 pounds will be 1¼ first class, over 75 pounds third class. Pickles in glass, boxed, will be third class instead of first class as heretofore.

Bennett H. Young, president of the Louisville, New Albany & Chicago, arrived in the city this morning and was closeted for an hour or two with Capt. R. S. Hayes, senior vice-president of the Gould system. It was learned that the object of the consultation was to perfect the lease whereby the L., N. A. & C. uses the Wabash tracks and terminal facilities at Indianapolis. The signatures of both executives were affixed to the lease.

On June 11th the line of the Texas and Pacific from Cheneyville to New Orleans, a distance of seventy-one miles, will be re-opened for passengers. This road, although long since built, has been unfit for business because of the difficulty in keeping it up through the Atchafalaya bottoms, and the T. & P. have sent the business through from Cheneyville to New Orleans over the Morgan Line.

The L. & N. seems to be securing about all the picnics that leave the city. They all go to Queen's Lake, the resort on the L. & N. that has become so popular. The following are the picnics that go to Queen's Lake within the next few days: The Grand Avenue Presbyterian Sunday-school goes to-morrow, the Improved Order of Red Men on Sunday, the Cumberland Presbyterian Sunday School on June 15th, and the Mission School of the Church of the Messiah on June 16th.

The latest and one of the best exhibits of fast freight time made by the Wabash is that of the Erie and North Shore Dispatch Car, No. 24,319, loaded with prunes, which left New York May 31, at 10 p. m., and reached Kansas City June 5, 8:25 p. m., having made the trip in four days and twenty-two hours. Faster time never has been made before, but the Wabash people say it is not fast enough yet, that it must be cut down and that they are going to reduce it soon.

By a new time schedule going into effect next Sunday some change in the Wabash through business will be made. Through passengers from Kansas City to Chicago have heretofore been sent by way of Hannibal. After the change all this business will go by way of St. Louis and the through trains between Kansas City and St. Louis and St. Louis and Chicago will be materially increased in size and made strictly treble first-class in every particular.

The General Committee of Arrangements of the Grand Consolidated Systems' picnic, will meet in room No. 40, general office building Sixth and Locust, this evening, to complete all arrangements for the picnic. Not until the consent of Capt. Hayes, granting a half day's holiday was obtained, were any but the general arrangements for the affair made, but now the way is clear and all parties interested are taking the greatest interest in the enterprise. The fullest success is assured, from the fact that all of the employes of the Consolidated Systems are taking individual responsibility in doing everything to advance the project, the affair promises to be an event of St. Louis history.

The Ferguson accommodation train which has been leaving the Union Depot at 4:20 p. m. will leave at 4:30 to give shippers a chance. The 6:30 p. m. train hereafter leaves at 6:15 p. m. The Sunday Ferguson accommodation will leave an hour later in the morning and make an extra trip at 1 p. m. On Sunday's trains Ferguson people can come to St. Louis to church or to spend the day with friends. The Kansas City trains due here at 6:50 a. m. on Sundays in the new time-table stops at Ferguson, thus adding another train besides the regular accommodation trains. In conversation this morning Col. H. M. Hoxie stated that it was his desire that the suburban patronage be encouraged, and he intends to extend every facility within reason to communities. It is needless to say that the Fergusonians are happy.

'Squire Martin Medart was surprised last night by a visit from a number of his friends, who remained with him until the small hours, partaking of the good things furnished by Mrs. Medart. The occasion was his forty-ninth birthday.

The Druids concluded their session last evening, and departed for their respective homes this morning. The newly elected officers were installed yesterday, after which all the members attended a picnic tendered by the Belleville Lodge.

Mr. Wm. White, vice-president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers, leaves for Terre Haute, Ind., this evening to adjust a local difficulty existing between the manufacturers' nail mill and their men. The difficulty has nothing to do with the scale or wages.

County Commissioner Ponier is in a very precarious condition from the effects of injuries sustained last evening. Mr. Ponier was riding through the county in a buggy, and was returning home about five o'clock last evening when his horse became unmanageable and ran away. The buggy capsized near the German Catholic church, Mr. Ponier having his collar bone broken and receiving internal injuries which are likely to prove fatal.

Identified.

The Coroner held an inquest this morning on the body found on the railroad tracks at Tayon avenue. Joseph Bastian, of 414 Tayon avenue, identified the remains as those of his son, Peter Bastian, aged twenty-two years, and a teamster employed by the Evers Manufacturing Company. The deceased left home to go to work at six o'clock yesterday morning, and was not seen alive by his father after that time. The body was taken to the Morgue when found, but will be taken home by the friends.

Will the Pope Convene the American Bishops.

What the Clergy and Land Leaguers Say—The Vatican and Irish Affairs—The Church Dignitaries Reticent.

The land leaguers, the Irish nationalists and the priesthood of St. Louis and the entire country are greatly exercised over the cablegram sent by the Rome correspondent of the New York Herald under date of June 3, as follows:

I have reason to believe that letters were issued by the Propaganda some days ago, and are now on their way to New York, summoning all the American archbishops to Rome to receive Papal instructions and make preparations for a Provincial Council of the whole American Church, which is to be held next year at some town in the United States not yet designated. Although the reasons for the summons are only incidentally political, the archbishops will, of course, be required to report on the state of politico-ecclesiastical affairs in America, especially in regard to Ireland. The nominal, indeed the chief, object of the Council is to tighten the bonds connecting the Catholic Church of America with Rome and to concert various disciplinary measures tending to render the mode of spiritual and social life of Catholic ecclesiastics more austere and severe than under the influence of democratic republican institutions it has become lately. The greatest importance is attached to this council by the Vatican.

The correspondent of the Herald is a member of the editorial staff of that paper, and it is known that he is an intimate friend of our American Minister, Wm. Astor, and that his information is, to say the least, semi-official.

The dispatch above was shown to the door-keeper of Archbishop Kenrick, inaccessible at all times to reporters; to Bishop Ryan, who always declines to talk about anything not within his own knowledge; to Francis Garvey, an Irish gentleman and a student of and participant in Irish history; to several priests and to a few local Irish leaders. Some conversations were held, upon which a pledge not to publish was imposed. Others spoke out freely, and wanted the world to know what they thought. The younger Dr. O'Reilly, at the end of a long discussion of the question said: "I want you to say for me, that I say that the Irish or any other nation, to be independent and freemen, must be allowed to manage their affairs independent of the church."

Justice of the Peace Sheehan, said: "I was born in Ireland, and my dear old mother and her mother and grandmother too. I was christened a Catholic. I am to-day a Catholic, but I am an Irishman, the man without a country. If the issue must be drawn, I must reiterate the sentiment of O'Connell, when he said at the time of the English dictation as to the appointment of bishops in Ireland—the veto they called it then (it meant that the Pope could appoint under dictation of the crown): it was in Dublin, before 10,000 of his countrymen, "Ireland will not yield to the dictation of an Italian, be he priest, cardinal or Pope."

"You are wrong as to the facts," remarked Counselor Garvey, who had joined the little group. "I recognize this fact. If, as the cablegram says, the archbishops and the heads of the religious houses are to be called to Rome, it means that the instructions that the propoganda desires to extend to the American council of Bishops are too extended and intricate to be entrusted to a single messenger."

"But, Counsellor," remarked Justice Sheehan, "you have not told the story of O'Connell's snubbing the Pope?"

"True, true; but I will. O'Connell—I knew him well. Let me write it for you?"

This to the reporter and the counsellor wrote: "A certain rescript arrived in Ireland from Rome. O'Connell was greatly exasperated at the rescript, as he considered the Pope had no right to instruct the Catholic clergy in matters that were secular, and that the Vatican should confine itself to spiritual matters. The aspect of matters between O'Connell and the priesthood began to assume a serious aspect. There was a conflict, and O'Connell denounced the arrogance of the Vatican and said that the "Irish people would take any amount of theology, but no politics from Rome." O'Connell seemed to think that political affairs were so mismanaged in Rome that the less the Pope interfered in foreign politics the better, as persons who manage their own political affairs badly ought to abstain from interference in the political concerns of others.

A call was naturally made by a POST-DISPATCH reporter upon Archbishop Kenrick with the usual result, a declination at the door. When the venerable prelate emerged from the door at four o'clock yesterday afternoon to take his daily walk out Chestnut to Twenty-eight, over to Laclede, thence to Grand avenue, returning by way of Pine, a reporter handed him a copy of the telegram. The Archbishop read it over, handed it back, and said: "I have nothing to say about this or anything else."

The reporter respectfully retired. A call was made then upon Bishop Ryan. He said: "The first I knew of an intention of calling a Plenary Council next year I heard from a reporter a week ago. As to the call of Archbishop and the decrees of the Propaganda, I know nothing. When the heads of the church are informed, then will the Catholic congregations be informed."

FATHER PHELAN,

pastor of the Catholic church in Baden, and editor of the Western Watchman, was met at Fox's Catholic book store, on Fifth street, near Walnut. "Why," said he, "I am not surprised by the news. Three weeks ago 'Carrolton,' the Rome correspondent of the Boston Pilot, cablegrammed to his paper an intimation that there were three propositions pending before the Propaganda, in view of the state of affairs in America. The first was to call to Rome representative bishops from each province in America; the second to call the archbishops and heads of religious houses to Rome, and the third to send a delegate to meet the American bishops in a council to be held some time in 1884. I know nothing, of course, about this matter, but assuming for your purpose that the Herald correspondent is correctly informed, I can only say that the next plenary council will be an important one, and that history will be made."

"It is said that the plenary council is to be called to enact some disciplinary rules for the government of the church in America."

"Who says that?"

"A prominent theologian in New York, a pastor of one of the largest churches in that metropolis, said a few days ago: "That there is great need for the holding of such a council, no one who has made the church in this country a study since the holding of the Baltimore council can deny. The beneficial effects of that council have long since passed away, and the disciplinary rules there adopted have not been uniformly enforced. I do not think the coming council will spend much time in dealing with the so-called Irish question, although that is a subject that will, no doubt, be brought up. How many pastors there are who have allowed their churches to be used for Land League and other political purposes, and how many have held fairs and raffles and excursions and other devices to raise money; and then, again, how many priests are complaining to their congregations about money matters! Yet all this was condemned by the Baltimore Council. The work of that body will have to be supported by a new council."

"Now let me tell you," said Father Phelan, "that priest has an exaggerated view of the discipline established by that council. Let me run over the proceedings of that council. Fox, hand me that book."

The father pointed to a volume on one of the shelves, which was a latin printed copy of the proceedings of the council. As he ran over the leaf he said: "This council was held in 1866, and there was less discipline established than is generally supposed. Of course there were some stringent rules adopted, but there were of a spiritual nature only. Bishops in America have been given great latitude in the management of their diocese. To a certain extent the rules established at that council have fallen into disuse."

"You mean excursions, fairs, etc.?"

"Yes."

"What will be done?"

"How do I know. I don't know that a council will be called."

"But did not the Baltimore Council make a rule that a plenary council should be held every ten years, and did not the late Pope sanction that rule?"

"True; but if you will look at the records, you will see that the Archbishop of Baltimore died in 1872, and his successor, Archbishop Bailey, died in 1877, after lingering in very feeble health for two years. Thus was the council that should have been held in 1876, missed. Understand this, however; the council is always in session, and the Pope may call it together at any time."

"What is the necessity of calling the council at this time?"

"I never question the wisdom or authority of the church. With your kind permission, this will end our interview."

Brother Patrick, assistant superior general of the order of Christian Brothers, was in the book-store at the time, but declined to talk for publication. Father O'Leary, now of St. Charles, whose name is familiar to the public by reason of his brilliant letters in the Globe-Democrat's great religious controversy of 1879, was also disinclined to talk about a matter in which he had no voice. He was, however, inclined to doubt that the propaganda intended calling the archbishops to Rome, and recalled the fact that Archbishop Spaulding acted as papal delegate at the Baltimore Council, and reflected the desires of the Holy See.

Efforts to interview other priests were about as successful as if directed at railroad employes after an accident.

A prominent Land Leaguer said: "I look upon this call of the Archbishop to mean that the Pope is under the control of the British Crown. It means that they must come and get their private instructions to stamp out land-leagueism in America through the power of the church. It can't be done. Religion and salvation is one thing, Irish independence is another. We have never had the backing of the clergy. We don't ask for it. I am a Catholic, practical and sincere, but I am an Irishman, practical and determined. No papal bull can make me waver in my course. I can be a Christian and a Catholic, and at the same time I can be an Irishman and a patriot."

SPORTING NEWS.

John Davis' Victory—The Driving Club—Events on the Turf—Notes.

Col. Chas. L. Hunt's great Missouri race-horse, John Davis, captured the turf stake, all ages, distance one and a-quarter miles, at Louisville yesterday, beating Pearl Jennings, Farragut, Checkmate, Lida Stanhope, Gus Matthews, Freeland and Bondholder. The stake was worth to the winner $4,050. Black Gal won the mile dash; mile heats, Metropolis; three-fourths of a mile, Gen. Harding; mile and five-eighths, Ballast, and steeplechase, P. A. IN COURT.

Judge Adams Severs the Nuptial Knot—Habeas Corpus Cases, Judgments, Etc.

The habeas corpus matter involving the control of Jennie B. Osborn, a young girl of fifteen, was laid over to-day in Judge Lubke's court until to-morrow morning to give time for the mother to make answer of return. Another writ issued for production of the boy, James F. Osborn, in court at the same hour. It is said that there will be painful revelations concerning the girl.

Judge Adams this morning disposed of the default divorce docket in court No. 1, prior to his departure for Europe. The following decrees were granted on the familiar grounds of desertion, bad treatment, etc.; Emma B. Hickman against Joseph Hickman, decree granted plaintiff, with restoration of maiden name Weinel; Minnie Gebhardt against Daniel S. Gebhardt, decree granted plaintiff; William Ford against Minnie Ford, decree granted plaintiff.

Judge Adams to-day sustained the motion for alimony in the Mahoney divorce case, allowing $20 per month, and $45 for August and September, each month.

In the matter of the assignment of Kade Brothers the inventory was filed to-day in court No. 3. R. E. Lasker and A. H. Dryer were appointed appraisers. The assignee's petition to sell the attached property was overruled.

Judge Cullen has been consulted by F. D. Cammann to obtain a decree in the Circuit Court setting aside a divorce obtained by Mrs. Cammann in this court June 2d. The husband in May last obtained a decree of divorce from her in one of the Kansas City courts. There are two children in the case concerning whose custody there may be some legal trouble.

An appeal to the Court of Appeals was allowed to-day from Judge Adams' court in the case of James Campbell against Louis A. Coquard.

Letters of administration were granted to-day to John Noble, administrator of Victor Noble.

The Probate Court to-day in the matter of the estate of Thomas Fitzimmons, ordered the discharge of the administrator, final receipts having been filed.

The law docket will be called to-morrow morning in Judge Thayer's division, Court No. 5.

The back-tax docket will be called in Court No. 5, Judge Thayer's division, on Monday, June 18.

Susanna Zeagel wants a decree of divorce from Christian Zeagel. They were married March 20, 1880, and lived together until August 1. Mrs. Zeagel alleges that her husband deserted her without any cause or provocation whatever.

SUCCESSFUL STUDENTS

College and School Commencements at Home and Abroad.

The Gathering at Kirkwood—Shurtleff's Roll of Honor—Foster's School—Graduates by the Score.

At Kirkwood yesterday the commencement exercis at the Seminary presided over by the Misses Sneed, were largely attended, the audience comprising many visitors from St. Louis. Great progress was noted in the sewing department, which is under the direction of Mrs. B. Gratz Brown, Mrs. E. W. Halsey, Mrs. Ganse, Mrs. John B. Henderson, Mrs. Tudor, Mrs. Goodell, and other ladies. In the art department, the crayon and decorative art work was greatly admired, the pupils having made great progress under Miss Anna Speed's instructions. The proceedings were opened with prayer by the Rev. Mr. Warner, and after the anthem, "O Sing to God," by the school in full chorus, the Rev. Dr. Ganse proceeded to present diplomas to the following graduates: Miss Cora Archer, who was the valedictorian; Miss Hattie C. Schafer, who delivered the salutatory; Misses Mary B. Swanwick, Bessie P. Ganse and Ella Adair. Among the exercises which followed were an essay, by Miss Archer, on "The Burdens of the Nineteenth Century;" another on "Society and Society," by Miss Ganse; another on "The Mysterious Stranger," by Miss Swanwick, which, in the writer's absence through sickness, was read by Miss Barr; another by Miss Ella Adair, daughter of Dr. Adair, of the Cherokee Nation, on "A Chat About the Cherokee Nation;" another on "Force versus Inertia," by Miss Schafer. Great pleasure was derived from the musical portion of the programme, which was of a high order of excellence, and, after a closing prayer by the Rev. Dr. Shields, the large audience dispersed, highly delighted with the evening's enjoyment.

SHURTLEFF COLLEGE.

At its annual commencement exercises Shurtleff College drew to the Upper Alton Baptist Church a large audience, who took a lively interest in the entertaining exercises. The Rev. T. B. Taggart, of Moro, delivered the invocation, after which Albert J. Kendrick, son of the President of the college, delivered the salutatory in Latin. Justis A. Bulkley followed with an oration, having for his topic the question: "Where are We?" Miss Bertha Bulkley spoke upon "Ideals Prophetic of Destiny;" and Edwin D. Rand upon "Religion and its Antagonistic Elements." Miss Clara Bulkley descanted upon "The Power of Motion," and Enoch Johnson discussed "The Tariff Policy of America." Albert J. Kendrick made a second appearance, delivering an oration on "The Relation of Poetry to Civilization." The valedictory was then read by Miss Bertha Bulkley, after which President Kendrick addressed the graduates, conferred the scholastic degrees and prizes, the Mills prize medal falling to Enoch Johnson, and the Osborne prize medal to Miss Bertha Bulkley.

FOSTER'S SCHOOL.

The fifth annual exhibition of Foster's school took place last night in the school hall, corner Sixteenth and Pine streets. It was filled to overflowing with an intelligent audience, consisting of 700 persons.

The programme was as follows: A piano duet, H. F. Fitzgerald and Miss Belle Foster; a violin solo, by John M. Henderson, and a piano duet, by Miss Olive Bell; essays by Edward N. Farris, William F. Spilker, William J. Finley and Paul Ring; declamations by Leo F. McManus, Joseph W. Pilcher, Arthur D. Stephens, C. A. L. Newcomb and McCloud Pearce; dialogues between H. W. Gibson and D. S. Brackett, and between Isaac A. Hedges, Raphael de Cordova, Guy B. Holmes, John B. Colt, John B. Carroll, Owen H. Williamson, Alfred Roth and David W. Foster.

All the performers acquitted themselves creditably, but especial mention should be made of Miss Bell's piano playing, the essays of Masters Ring and Farris, the declamations of Masters Pilcher, Newcomb and Pearce, the violin solo of Master Henderson, and the dialogue between Gibson and Brackett.

The principal in a brief address reviewed the labors of the year, before which he awarded prizes for good conduct to Masters John M. Henderson, Irving Yaeger and James E. Chambers; for attendance, to Masters John S. Willson, Louis Buente and Harry L. Matthews; for scholarship, to Masters John S. Willson, Irving Yaeger and John B. Colt. Master Buente also received a prize for music.

Rev. Dr. Tudor, of the Centenary M. E. Church, presided. He opened the exhibition with prayer and closed it with a benediction.

Just before the audience dispersed Prof. Foster was surprised by being made the recipient of a costly and elegantly carved gold-headed cane from the pupils of the school. He touchingly replied with a few appropriate remarks, which closed another successful year for Foster's School.

JOBBERS AND RETAILERS.

"Let No Possible Victim Get Away,"

Seems to be the motto in some stores. A lady the other day was attracted into a store by an article she saw ticketed very low in the window. Finding the same thing inside, she was surprised to have it priced to her at a higher figure, and was glad to get out again with the breath in her body. Indifference or boring a customer to death we do not consider the proper attitude of a salesman. We prefer to welcome everybody to see our things and go about agreeably without being worried, with our help watchful and ready to serve when called on, but never intrusive. We do not wish them to beg for us nor to waylay.

We have just received a new stock of

THE GRAND JURY.

Municipal Corruption—No Indictments for Duelling—The Report.

At three o'clock this afternoon the May Grand Jury made a final report to Judge Van Wagoner in the Criminal Court. They examined a number of witnesses in relation to the reports of corruption in the Municipal Assembly, but the testimony was all of a hearsay character and not fit for presentation to the court; concerning the practice of duelling, the jury had only their condemnation to offer. No indictments were returned. Among the recommendations were suggestions for a better supply of water for the Jail, and the separation of children from grown persons at the Insane Asylum.

Twenty Years.

The jury in the case of John Nelson, who was tried for murder in the Criminal Court, returned a verdict of murder in the second degree this afternoon, and assessed Nelson's punishment at twenty years in the Penitentiary. Nelson killed John Smith on the Levee in September, 1881, in a saloon brawl.

The Markets.

FORENOON SESSION, CLOSING AT 1 P. M.

An annoying mistake was made yesterday in this commercial column in stating that the Minneapolis Tribune figured out the crop of 1883 wheat as 493,000,000 bushels. Of course it should have been 393,000,000. Otherwise the article read as written.——In a morning paper's Chicago special on the market, it says that Henry Clews & Co., of New York, telegraph that no charters are being made in that market for grain shipments by vessels. Henry Clews & Co., must have overlooked their own daily papers, for in a New York commercial paper, under date of June 5th, in list of freight charters, is found freight room engaged for 238,000 bushels of grain, 6,150 barrels flour, and 31,850 sacks of flour.——The operations in grain futures were looking around for the remains of the "bear combination" at noon. The best laid plans of mice, etc.——Samples of wheat have lately been shown on the floor that were said to be damaged by the frost. A farmer in speaking of it ascribed the damage to heavy rains An attempt was made to break wheat futures, at the opening this morning, a combination having been formed late yesterday by a few operators for that purpose, if other markets held out any encouragement. The weather was fine, other markets of this country weaker, and Liverpool lower. Thus favored, the combination started in selling and did force prices down considerably, but there were too many buyers, and the decline could not be held, especially as stronger advices came in from other points. There was a sudden recovery, and subsequently the tendency was stiffly upward, with an active demand and cautious sellers. The highest points were reached shortly after 12 o'clock, afterwards a slight decline taking place, but the close was ⅜@¾c above yesterday's close. Corn was weaker early, but it also turned strong and advanced under a good demand, brought about by encouraging advices of higher markets elsewhere and an active export demand in Chicago and New York. The tone continued firm to the close, which was at advances of ⅝@⅞c over yesterday's close. Oats were better and the demand exceeded selling offers. Cash wheat was entirely nominal on the call, little being offered and buyers holding off; afterwards sales were readily made at strong prices, and before the close an advance was paid. Corn was higher and firm, with a good demand and supply on sale rather moderate. Oats were better and in demand.

Wheat—Receipts 366 sks., 8,000 bu.; No. 2 red $1 19½@1 19¾ regular; June $1 19⅛ bid; July $1 18⅞ to 1 20, closing at $1 19⅛; August $1 18 to $1 19⅛. September $1 19 to 1 20⅛@⅞, closing at $1 20⅛; October $1 20⅞ to $1 23, closing at $1 22⅛; year $1 17⅛ to 1 18⅞, closing at $1 18⅛ asked; No. 3 red $1 13⅛ this side and later $1 14 was bid; No. 4 $1 05 in St. L.; rejected 86 asked; No. 2 Mediterranean $1 22 bid regular; No. 3 do $1 14 bid regular.

CORN—Receipts 126 sks. 50,050 bu. No. 2 mixed 51 in E. and U. 50⅝ regular; June 51¼; July 51⅞ to 52⅛; August 53⅛ to 54; September 54¼ to 55; October 54⅞; year 46 to 46⅛, closing at 46⅛; No. 2 White-mixed 51⅞ bid regular; rejected do 51@51⅛ this side; New do 51⅞ bid this side; new-mixed 48 bid this side; Rejected 47⅛ St. L., 47 in C and asked for E: no grade 40@41⅛ this side.

Oats—Receipts 318 sks, 9,800 bu. No. 2 40⅛ in U., 40¼@40⅛ in St. L., 40⅛ in D.; June 40⅜ bid; July 40⅛; August 31⅞ bid; year 30⅞ bid; rejected 39⅛ in St. L.

Rye—Receipts 31 sks, 1,100 bu. Dull and nominal, none selling. Grade No. 2 could have been bought at 60, but there was seemingly no demand.

Flour—Receipts 3,006 brls. Prices broke for the first time to-day, notwithstanding that wheat was stronger and advancing. Trading was slow and the market dragged, buyers showing but little, if any, desire to trade. The decline was from 5 to 15c per brl, and affected all grades. We quote by sample (the inside prices for straight grades and outside lots between grades:) Extra fancy $6@6 20; fancy $5 85@5 95; choice $5 50@5 60; family $4 95@5 10; xxx $4 20@4 40; xx $3 50@3 65; x $3 00@3 15; superfine $2 85@3; fine $2 65@2 75; patents $6 25@7. These prices are for lots on arrival at depot and levee; favorite brands 25c more and order lots higher.

Cornmeal — Unchanged at $2 55@2 60 on orders delivered; grits, pearl meal and hominy at $3 60@3 70.

Rye Flour—Slow at $3 70@3 90.

Millfeed steady and in demand. Sacked bran 57@58 at mill, 58 on P. track, 58@59 E. track, 60 f. o. b. this side; bulk bran 48 P. track, 50 E. track.

Hay—Receipts 201 tons. Only the best grades were wanted; everything else very slow sale. This side—Prairie $6 50@7 00 for prime to prime; $7 50@8 50 for choice to fancy; common to choice clover mixed $6—11; timothy $11@12 for prime; $13@14 for strictly prime; $15@16 for choice; $16@17 for fancy. East track—Mixed $6@10 50; timothy $11@13 for prime to choice; $15@16 for fancy.

Provisions—Receipts 60 lbs hams, 657,010 lbs meats, 350 lbs lard, 2,000 lbs grease. The market was again dull to-day, though there was a little more business transacted, but this was chiefly at lower rates, and the feeling was one of weakness. Standard mess pork sold at $19 35@19 25, mainly at the lower rate. Prime steam lard was salable at 10⅝. The only trades in spot dry salt were of boxed shoulders at 7.90, longs at 9¾, and shorts at 10.35; some of country shorts brought 10 freight 20. Packed bacon shoulders at 8¼, longs at 10¼@10 45, c'ribs at 10⅞@10⅞, shorts at 11 and loose shoulders at 8.35; loose shorts offered at 10⅜. Hams 12¾@14½ plain and 14@15 canvassed, outside for fancy brands. Tallow 8¼@8½ for fancy cake; 8@8¼ for prime and choice in oil barrels; No. 2 7¼@⅜; irregular packages 7¼@7¾; grease tallow 7. Breakfast bacon 13@14½. Grease 6@6¾ for brown, 7@7¾ for yellow, 8@9 for white. Beef—Extra mess $15@16 per barrel according to brand; $8 00@8 50 per half barrel; dried 16@17, selected 18 per pound. Fresh smoked tongues $5 00@5 50 per dozen. Salt—Domestic $1 25 this side, $1 20 E. side per barrel; ground alum $1 15 per sack for round lots. $1 20@1 25 in a small wax.

Highwines—About steady at $1 14, with reported sales of 128 brls. Cincinnati firm at $1 13, Chicago $1 16; Peoria firm at $1 15.

Lead—Steady, with a demand manifest, but no business reported. Last sales of refined were at $4 15 del: hard worth $4 10@4 12½. Spelter worth $4 30@4 35.

Grass Seeds—Quiet, with more offered and increased sales in consequence. Demand, however, very easily satisfied. Cotton.

Weakness was the predominating feature in the spot cotton markets, and although there was no change outside of a decline at Liverpool, values were unsettled and very bearish. Trading was light, and taking the combined movement at all the most prominent home markets the transactions would not reach 1,000 bales. At Liverpool the sales were also smaller, showing a falling off of a thousand bales. Futures were again lower, New York opening barely steady at a decline of 2 to 4 points, and ruling somewhat irregular, but still weak and downward in tendency. Prices at 2:30 p. m. were from 1 to 2 points lower then the opening. At Liverpool futures were flat at the opening, and closed dull. Yarns and fabrics at Manchester dull and rather lower. New Orleans opened lower and ruled weak and easy.

CATTLE—The receipts were very moderate to-day, and included only a few good fat steers of the kind wanted by butchers and interior shippers. Eastern buyers had pretty much all withdrawn from the market until next week. Trade was generally slow, and the free sales reported were to butchers and retail dealers. Values still continue weak, but in a general way there was no quotable difference as compared with the day before. This applies to all descriptions of cattle, but especially heavy shippers and infirm butchers' stuff. The feeling was easy, and the market dragging and unsettled. Several large transfers made late yesterday to Eastern buyers are given below, along with the sales of to-day. Values weak and bearish at the following:

HOGS—This market again was active and in really good York hogs an advance of 5c was noticed, while other descriptions were strong at the prices ruling yesterday. Buyers were quite urgent, and light weights especially met with quick sales, the offerings soon being disposed of at a range from $6 50@6 70, bulk of sales at $6 65. Heavy hogs, although fairly active, were not in as good a request as the others, consequently values were not materially changed from the rates of the day before. The top price this morning was $6 85, obtained for a bunch of butcher hogs of 273 lbs average. Prices at 11 a. m. were strong at $6 50@6 70 for light to really good Yorkers, $6 25@6 65 for mixed to good packing and $6 70@6 90 for butchers to extra; skips and culls $5@6.

Washed Ashore.

The Colorado left the foot of Vine street this morning with an excursion party.

Pilot Jim Burnet was examined at Louisvill for color blindness and pronounced all right.

The river is coming rapidly, a foot of water being added to the stream since yesterday's report.

There was scarcely any activity on the Levee this morning.

The City of St. Louis telegraphs from Cairo that the boat will be in at one o'clock this afternoon.

The barge line holds the Oakland and barges for New Orleans until to-morrow afternoon or Sunday at daybreak.

Two or three more quarter boats for the Government are to be built and finished here within the next fifteen days.

Capt. Geo. W. Ford, acting harbor master, who has been ill for several days, is around again keeping things moving.

Telegrames from above to the Diamond Jo Line, say the Pittsburg will be here at noon to-day with a heavy trip. She returns to-morrow.

Com. John A. Scudder leaves for his European trip to-morrow night. His many friends and business admirers wish him a pleasant journey and a safe return.

The Montana got in from Kansas City late last night with all she could swim under. She returns to-morrow in the Electric Line. Jenkins & Sass are her agents.

The Kansas City Packet Company's wharfboat is filled with freight for the D. R. Powell. When she leaves for Kansas City to-morrow she will have a full cargo. L. F. D'Arcamble is her agent.

The War Eagle, being detained up the river, will not arrive until Monday. The clipper Centennial will go to St. Paul this afternoon in her stead. Capt. Tom Davidson will make this trip on her.

An extra force of men has been put to work on the new St. Paul boat, in order that she may be able to start on her maiden trip to St. Paul on the 20th. It is thought she will be equally as fast as the Gem City.

The St. Louis and St. Paul Packet Company and the Diamond Jo Line have agreed on the passenger rates for all up-river points, taking $16 for the single trip to St. Paul as a basis. A round trip rate of $28 will be put on.

The towboat Onward made a trip from Pittsburg to Cincinnati in sixty-three hours with a tow of 52,000 bushels of coke to Ironton and 155,000 bushels coal to Cincinnati on last water. This is what is called fast time.

Capt. J. J. Darragh, whose arrival here from Memphis was noted in the Commercial Gazette of yesterday, will remain to superintend the construction of his new towboat. Capt. Darragh is an old Pittsburger and has had a number of boatsbuilt here, including among others the Bellevernon and Paragon.—Pittsburg Commercial-Gazette.

From all the lights before us—and they are of the electrical nature—the nice gentleman who occupies the position of supervising inspector of the Tenth District might just as well be packing up his kit and getting ready to vacate, for a monster petition is being circulated, and, so far, has been numerously signed for his displacement. It is a foregone conclusion, that he must retire, and a very prominent, worthy and fully competent steamboatman has been picked out to fill the office. More anon.—New Orleans Three States.

A drawing of the steamer Chickasaw, now being built by Rees & Son, at Pittsburg, for the Memphis and White River Packet Company, is on exhibition at the Merchants' Exchange, of Memphis. The boat is to be completed by September 1, and will at once enter the White river trade. She will be 185 feet long, 38½ feet beam and 6 feet depth of hold. Three boilers 27 feet long and 17 in diameter. Engines 17 inches with 7 feet stroke. The shaft will be made of German steel, imported from the Krupp Steel Works, Germany. The boat will have all the latest improvements, and will be finely finished throughout. She will also have the electric light.

State Law on Light-Houses.

Commander J. J. Read, of this light-house district, began this morning to issue the following act which was passed by the Missouri Legislature last session. It will serve to warn malicious persons of the danger they are apt to lay themselves liable to:

An Act to protect Government lights and light-house stations in the navigable waters of this State.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Missouri, as follows:

Section 1. Every person who shall wilfully break, injure, deface, or destroy any light-house station, post, platform, steps, lamp, or other structure pertaining to such light-house station, or shall extinguish any light erected by the United States upon or along the navigable waters of this State, to aid in the navigation thereof, (if such offense be not punishable by the laws of the United States,) shall, upon conviction, be adjudged guilty of a misdemeanor, and punished by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding one year, or by fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Sec. 2. Every person who shall wilfully break, injure, deface, or destroy any light-house station, post, platform, steps, lamp, or other structure pertaining to such light-house station, the same being the property of the United States, or shall extinguish any light erected by the United States upon or along any of the navigable waters of this State, to aid in the navigation thereof, with intent to endanger the safety of any vessel or vessels navigating said waters, or to jeopardise the safety of any person or persons, or property in or upon said vessel or vessels, shall, (if such offense be not punishable by the laws of the United States,) on conviction, be adjudged guilty of a felony, and punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary for a term not exceeding five years.

Approved March 16, 1883.

SHERMAN's little game with FORAKER; "Heads I win, tails you lose."

AN Iowa sheriff managed to postpone another lynching in that State yesterday by hiding the prisoners.

THEY are already making puns on the name of FORAKER. This is a boom in its way, but its way is not long.

HUMAN life in Iowa is held much cheaper than a quarter section of Government land. We advise the peaceful people of Iowa to move to Missouri.

MR. HAVERLY should have stuck to the drama. His attachment to mining ventures has led to a number of attachments from the Sheriff's office.

POOR old Illinois! The honest miner goes to work with pick and dinner-can, and also with his trusty rifle slung over his shoulder, and his revolver on his hip.

THE excuse given by Secretary CHANDLER for violating the law in the case of the cadet engineers is that we have more officers in our navy now than we have room for.

THERE are two kinds of law in this country: Supreme Court law and Cabinet law, and Secretary CHANDLER says that Cabinet law overrules Supreme Court law every time.

SOME good Ohio man ought to start a THURMAN boom now to overtake the TILDEN boom, even as one wave near the beach overtakes another wave before wasting itself in foam on the sand.

THE double-turreted monitor Amphitrite was launched yesterday at Wilmington with great enthusiasm. The Amphitrite is better fitted for a place in a museum than for a place in battle.

THE calls on Mr. HARDY, the slop contractor, are growing numerous and frequent. If he is thus found wanting in the sweet season of the strawberries, what are we to expect when the watermelon is a burden?

IT takes a great deal to throw New York in the shade, but as the papers all say that that city is now "90 in the shade," we infer that some Boston man fresh from Harvard College must have been looking at the town.

IT must be grateful to the editor of the Globe-Democrat to reflect that his paper is not published in Iowa or Kansas or in Illinois or Arkansas, where the shot-gun is the prevalent ailment and the rope the popular remedy. Poor old States!

THE demand in New York for a wider footway on the bridge is partly due to the memory of a recent accident, and partly to the fact that every Chicago bride that comes to New York feels called on to take a stroll over the bridge.

THERE is going to be another convention in New Orleans to improve the Mississippi river. If talk could improve it, that wasteful river would be running within its banks with the placid flow of a party organ soliloquizing on a party platform.

FROM the loving manner in which the Star Route steal is nursed we infer that the gentlemen who are drawing $150 a day as managers of the combination are aware that they are not likely to strike another "soft snap" of the same kind very soon.

AS a watch dog guarding the public lands against predatory corporations and the Treasury against Star Route steals, Senator C. H. VAN WYCK, of Nebraska, is a regular old bob-tailed CÆSAR, and is giving his own party a great deal of trouble.

SENATOR BECK says there is a Senator whose nomination by the Republicans would render several Democratic States doubtful, and he therefore refuses to give the name, but Senator MORGAN says it is ALLISON that BECK is afraid of. This looks like a little Democratic conspiracy to start a Republican boom for the Iowa Senator.

AT the reception given by the Czar and Czarina to the diplomatic corps when our Minister HUNT presented our Admiral BALDWIN, the admiral told their Majesties a touching legend as how as when the guns of Cronstadt announced the coronation, the guns of our fleet in the harbor answered, gun for gun. At this we are told the Empress smiled sweetly and said, "Is that so?" but we are not told what old BALDY's answer was. In this country when a lady says "Is that so?" the etiquette is to say, "You can bet your sweet life it is," but perhaps the etiquette is different in Russia.

IN a letter to Postmaster-General GRESHAM, Senator VAN WYCK shows up a recent Star Route steal in the ordering of a daily four-horse stage coach mail service two hundred miles through an Indian country and between points already provided with abundant mail facilities. The contract appears to have been let for no other purpose but to confer $13,000 a year on JOHN R. MINER, now on trial for Star Route frauds, and VAILE, another of the indicted defendants, who figures in the contract as a surety. VAN WYCK suggests that after extending its helping hand thus to these men, the Department should ask for their acquittal under the pending indictments, with compliments and thanks. The Nebraska Senator evidently does not appreciate the importance of establishing new post-offices in the wilderness for bone-gatherers and buffalo hunters, and to fill the ringing grooves of change with such names as Hattonville, Hattonburg, Hattonfield, Hattonvale, Burghatton, Villehatton and so on.

CROOK SAFE.

The POST-DISPATCH has the pleasure of giving the first reliable news from General CROOK, about whose safety there has been great excitement in the public mind ever since he started on his hazardous expedition into the unknown fastnesses of the Sierra Madres. It appears that he is encamped, and that his scouting parties are still seeking in vain for the evasive Apaches. A strong Mexican force is about to join him in the hunt, and it thus appears that he knew what he was about, and has again justified the confidence of army officers in that skill and judgment which have saved him from disaster throughout his long service against the Indians.

CATTLE IN THE STREETS.

It would not be a bad idea for the Chief of Police to issue a special order to the force to be on the lookout for the careless cowboys, who, in these summer days, wantonly disregard the city ordinances relating to the driving of cattle through the streets. The droves grow more numerous just as the weather grows warmer, and certain districts of the city have already been made uncomfortable by the apparition of vagrant hordes of thirsty-looking and ill-tempered steers, whom a slight amount of over-heating and over-driving may easily render vicious.

The city ordinances are full and sufficient to prevent any complaint arising from this score, but they are not enforced. When they were first enacted a few arrests and fines taught the avaricious drovers that it was cheaper to respect the requirements of public safety than it was to violate the law. But in a few months the vigilance of the police was relaxed, and at present the people whose business calls them to drive cattle through the streets pay no attention whatever to the ordinances.

If the Mayor or the Chief of Police would take the trouble to drive along Chouteau avenue or over the Jefferson avenue bridge about eight in the morning, the spectacle of the violation of the law would give a deep shock to their municipal patriotism.

THE MORMON QUESTION.

Mr. ROBINSON, an Englishman, who spells his first name "BHIL," and who has seen a good deal of life among the Moslems of India, has been spending some time among the Mormons of Utah, and is enthusiastic in his praise of their many virtues. He says that in no Christian country has he ever found more consistent piety, sobriety and neighborly charity. He detests polygamy, he says, as much as any one, but regards the average Mormon as without a peer in commercial honesty, religious sincerity and other virtues of Christian civilization. Twenty-dollar bonnets and the other incidental expenses of polygamy, he believes, will destroy the institution.

Twenty-dollar bonnets do, as we all know, powerfully discourage monogamy, but, as Mr. ROBINSON might have observed, in Utah, polygamy not only discourages but utterly banishes the twenty-dollar bonnet. When a woman has an undivided lien on the purse and affections of her husband, her fancy naturally turns to thoughts of twenty-dollar bonnets. But when she must put up with only a tenth interest in a man, she knows that her dividend in the millinery line must be in proportion.

The fact is that the Mormons practice polygamy for the same reasons that commend it to all barbarians—because it ministers to their baser passions and supplies them with the cheap labor of female slaves and their children. It is not only "the twin relic," but slavery itself, barring only the chattel feature, and if there was power enough in our Government to abolish chattel slavery in fifteen States, it surely can wipe out the institution of harem slavery in Utah. The latter is as strictly "involuntary servitude" as the former was, and the virtues attributed to the Mormon harem lords were seen in GEORGE WASHINGTON, ROBERT E. LEE, STONEWALL JACKSON, and many thousands of our Southern slaveholders. They never gave up their slaves, and all the moralists and economists in the world never could have convinced them that it was their duty and their interest to do so voluntarily without pay. Compulsion was required, and nothing but compulsion will ever abolish the sex slavery now established in Utah. Pity for the children yet unborn pleads for its speedy destruction.

Nothing but the will is wanting. United States laws for the suppression of crime in the Indian Territory are enforced with signal success at Fort Smith, in the State of Arkansas. Make every polygamist in Utah liable to arrest and trial for felony before a United States Court in Nevada or California, and they will soon obtain a new "revelation" from on high. The Government could easily provide for all the destitution incident to the dissolution of polygamous family relations.

APPLYING THE REFORM.

A politician can generally be trusted to do the wrong thing under any circumstances, and the announcement that the new civil service reform rules would be misused to exclude women from entering the public service need astonish no one.

As long as it was possible for favoritism and debauchery to permit all kinds of abuses to enter through the door which admitted women into the public service, it was not considered worth while to interpose any objection on the score of sex or ineffiency or detriment to the service. The result was, that hundreds of deserving and hard-working women were permitted to share in the right to earn a living. But there were only too many cases in which the service was disgraced by the presence of unworthy favorites.

Now, when there is no room for unworthy favoritism; now that woman can enter the public service only on her merits and only when she has vindicated her fitness, we are told that the doors will be shut in her face, and that the heads of departments will exercise their discretion by restricting the entrance examination to males.

The evidences are gathering that the civil service reform will be made as complete a farce as its conditions permit.

WHAT ST. LOUIS NEEDS.

An Exposition and Music Hall.
A smoke consumer.
A sprinkling ordinance.
A new pumping engine.
Cheaper gas.
A Forest Park connection.
Street car commutation.
Harmony in the City Council.
A new Union depot.
A new bridge at Twelfth street.
A Belt railroad.
A Boulevard; also
A Boulevard ordinance.
A free Public Library.

Here are fourteen wants of the city, all of them urgent and pressing, and only two of them in sight; the others are enough to make a good municipal platform for any party, and Statesmen would do well to paste this in their hats.

A LARGE delegation of Kentuckians, headed by Bishop DUDLEY, Senator BECK, ex-Gov. STEVENSON, JOHN G. CARLISLE, J. PROCTOR KNOTT and HENRY WATTERSON, were entertained last night at a Delmonico banquet by the great commercial and railroad magnates of New York, and Louisville's great Southern Exposition received a glowing introduction to the good will of the metropolis. General GRANT, CARL SCHURZ and Senator BAYARD were among the speakers, and, as the object was merely to arouse interest in the Exposition, and not to ask for pecuniary assistance, the delegation succeeded admirably in the object of their mission. The moral, educational and political influence of such projects were earnestly commended by General GRANT and the other distinguished men present. Louisville is doing a good thing, doing it with admirable judgment and liberality, and while she deserves and will receive both praise and profit from her success, it will benefit the country at large.

THE NEW YORK PRESS.

Current Editorial Comment of the Metropolitan Journals.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 8.—The World to-day says: "Secretary Chandler succeeded yesterday in launching one of his new double-turreted iron-clads, the Amphitrite, from a Delaware shipyard. A daughter of one of the contractors performed the christening ceremonies. She should have been dressed to represent the genius of waste and extravagance, and the bottle of wine with which she baptised the new vessel should have been charged up to the Government at a considerable advance on first cost."

THE SUN.

The Sun says: "The result of the Ohio election will not only be felt in the Presidential campaign, but it may exert a marked influence upon the contest in New York this year. If Ohio should go for the Democrats by a large majority in October, New York would be apt to follow in the same direction in November with greater momentum. But suppose the Republicans should happen to carry Ohio? The New York Democrats might then have their hands full to save their State ticket and the Legislature."

THE TIMES.

The Times says: "Miner, at the end of the first Star Route trial, was convicted and placed in prison. The jury declared that he had conspired to defraud the Government by means of contracts like this one which the department has recently given to him. It is difficult to see what excuse the department can offer for its action in admitting this man to the list of contractors once more."

THE HERALD.

The Herald says: "Since protection, openly advocated by the Republicans, has made long strides in the South, Mahone has thrown his Democratic opponents in Virginia into a panic by raising this question, for they know that Virginia is for Protection, so is Louisiana, so probably is Tennessee, so to some extent is Georgia. The Democrats must expect to lose some Southern votes in the Electoral College if they remain silent. On the other hand, if they are wise and bold enough to follow their way instead of the timid Kentucky lead, they can carry more States in the West and Northwest than they can possibly lose in the South."

PERSONAL POINTS.

—Mme. Patti, now at her castle in Wales, will leave soon to fill a few weeks' engagement in London.

—Somebody has tried to humiliate Boston's hero, Mr. Sullivan, by proposing him for the office of street inspector.

—"Senator Edmunds hides his light under a bushel, but the basket is full of cracks," observes the Philadelphia Times.

—Mr. Robert Grant, the author of "The Confessions of a Frivolous Girl," will be married to Miss Galt, daughter of Sir Edward Galt, July 3.

—Lord Ronald Gower, whose "Reminiscences" just now produce a huge sensation in London society, describes his visit to the United States in glowing terms.

—Congressman Cutts, of the Sixth Iowa District, whose life was despaired of a few weeks ago, has so far recovered as to be able to take short walks and drives.

—Cassius M. Clay, of Kentucky, is the same fiery Cassius as of old. Some one having stolen his sheep, he offers a reward of $100 "for the discovery of the thief—dead or alive."

—Fred Douglass being at a meeting of white clergymen in Boston the other day, was called on for a speech. "No," he said, "I came here merely to give color to the occasion."

—Sitting Bull is to be baptized into the Catholic Church in September. If the officiating clergyman should hold him under during the long prayer it would make his case surer.

—Sarah Jewett writes: "I assert as my unqualified opinion, that the stage, as a profession, offers no greater temptation to an unprincipled life than any other art or business.

—When, if ever, the Star Route trial is ended, says the Commercial Gazette, there will be provocation for an investigation of the attorneys who were potential in compromising the Ottman case.

—Rumor has it that General Sherman's youngest daughter, Miss Rachel, is betrothed to ex-Secretary Blaine's second son, Mr. Emmons Blaine. The families have always been intimate.

—According to the Graphic, New York girls have become so "English" that they will not go out on the streets unattended. They must have a chaperone to parties and the theatres. They won't go about with young men alone.

—William H. Beckwith and his sister, Miss Agnes Beckwith, the English swimmers, have arrived at New York from London. To a reporter who asked the woman if she could remain in the water a whole day, she replied: "Why, bless you, three whole days—and, mind you, I include the nights as well." Miss Beckwith's best long swim was 20 miles in 6 hours and 25 minutes.

—Mr. John Sherman, having outgeneraled the enemies who were trying to nominate him for Governor, can now "sit on his front porch and watch the lawn-mower rattling among the trees that shut out the highway, fifty yards beyond; ask after the grapes in his garden; linger over the strawberry-bed, white with blossoms, and commiserate with the stalks of asparagus over their timid and sickly birth: and then to the lookout on the knoll where he can see the cloud-shadows at play on the distant hillsides, and close his hands over shrub blossoms, purple and sweet, with the fragrance of pineapple and strawberry."

POLITICAL GOSSIP.

The Chicago Times advises Mr. Bayard to stop political letter writing unless he would rather write than be President.

Gov. Grant, of Colorado, is inclined to think that Mr. McDonald is the Presidential favorite among the Democrats in that State.

New York Sun: It looks as though Thomas A. Hendricks did not intend that the next Democratic candidate for President should come from Indiana.

It is suggested that if Judge Foraker should change his name to Fouracer, the Ohio poker-playing elements would make him Governor by an overwhelming majority.

Mr. Alexander Graves, Congressman-elect from the Fifth Missouri District, believes that if the Democrats carry Ohio this year, Allen G. Thurman will be the next President.

William H. Vanderbilt's lawyer, Chauncey M. Depew, arose in a banquet last Saturday night and expressed the hope that "mutton-headed millionaires" would have no influence on the politics of the future. This is a "straw."

A Washington dispatch to the Philadelphia Press says: "A gentleman who has recently arrived here from Mississippi, and who is one of the best informed Republican politicians in the State, says that General Chalmers is not a success as an apostle of liberalism. 'Chalmers lies between the upper and nether stones, and he is being ground to powder.'"

The Iowa Democrats have opened their State campaign with a ringing platform against monopoly rule, and in favor of tariff reform and a judicious regulation of the liquor traffic. They have much better prospects than ever before, owing to the fanaticism and incapacity of the extreme Prohibitionists, who have secured control of the Republican party and seem determined to goad it to destruction.

Blaine's friends say that he has lost all political ambition. He takes a passing interest only in events, makes fun of Arthur's administration, and says that only accident can prevent Democratic success in 1884. Blaine thinks that none of those now prominently named as possible candidates will be nominated by the Democrats, but looks for a repetition of the circumstances that led to the nomination of Franklin Pierce in 1852. He regards the chances as decidedly in favor of the nomination of some man who, like Pierce, was hardly known before.

The Apple Problem.

ST. LOUIS, MO., June 7, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

A., by going into partnership with B., sells his 30 apples for 60 cents; therefore he loses 15 cents, while B. only gains 10 cents. Here is where he loses his 5 cents. J. M. O'C.

The Gobble Duet.

ST. LOUIS, June 8, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Will you be so kind and put the following in the POST-DISPATCH: We request the butcher who puts his half-starved calves in Straube's yard on Broadway and North Market street for twenty-four and thirty hours at a time, to put them somewhere else, as nobody can sleep in that neighborhood on account of this nuisance. They keep bawling continually day and night. We think Mr. Straube could make his living without annoying people a whole square around.

A SICK PERSON AND MANY OTHERS.

It is a Draw.

ST. LOUIS, June 7, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

A bets B that the Athletics would win to-day's game. As the game was called, off please decide who wins the bet, or if the bet is also a draw, and oblige A SUBSCRIBER.

City Time.

ST. LOUIS, June 6.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

To settle a dispute, will you be kind enough to give the recognized authority of city time, in to-morrow's issue; whether it is E. Jaccard Jewelry Company, or Mermod, Jaccard & Co.; and oblige a subscriber? CHAS. A. DYER, Per R. A. D.

[Neither. Washington University is the authority on city time.—ED. P.-D.]

The Law of Boarding-Houses.

ST. LOUIS, June 7, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

What is the law regarding private families taking boarders? Does not the law allow four rooms for the use of boarders exempt from taxes? Please state the case and oblige many families who read your paper.

[The license law does not apply to boarding-houses in which there are not more than four rooms for the use of boarders.—ED. P.-D.]

Driving Club Prizes.

ST. LOUIS, MO., June 6, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

You mentioned in yesterday's POST-DISPATCH that there are to be six races at the Driving Club next Saturday. Is the road wagon donated by the Varney Carriage Company to be trotted for then, and by what class of horses?

A READER,
With a 3-minute trotter.

[The terms of the competition will be found in our local columns of to-day.—ED. P.-D.]

Another Call on Hardy.

ST. LOUIS, June 7, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The residents on Ware avenue from Olive street northward would be pleased to learn where James Hardy can be found. In the absence of his carts, the slops that cannot be kept in the houses are deposited in vacant lots, which is wrong in law, and may prove detrimental to health, and yet our necessities can know no law.

To Numismatists.

1920 RANDOLPH ST., ST. LOUIS, June 7, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Being a constant reader of your paper, and knowing your readiness to answer any questions put to you, I take the liberty to ask if a half-dollar (United States money) bearing date 1810, and an English half-penny, 1730, would be considered rare coins; and, if so, what would be their value? Both are well-preserved. If you cannot tell me, please say where I can ascertain. An answer through your paper will oblige

Unto Cæsar.

ST. LOUIS, June 7, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Has Ned Cuthbert been released and Henry Overbeck been engaged by the management of the Louis club? What is the average height of a youth of seventeen summers? Please answer and oblige, JULIUS CÆSAR.

[Cuthbert has not been released. Overbeck has been engaged. The average height of a youth of seventeen summers is a trifle less than he usually thinks it is or, say, five feet, five to six inches.—ED. P.-D.]

The Cops' Manual.

ST. LOUIS, June 7, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Has a policeman rights to cross his line of march in case of loudjtalk, and say to a lady: "If you don't shut up now I'll take you by the top of your head and drag you down and put you in?" Day before a big fight at Mound City Preserving Company's, bloody noses and no policeman.

AN OLD SUBSCRIBER,

Yesterday's Game.

ST. LOUIS, June 7, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Please answer in this evening's POST-DISPATCH, to decide a bet, what base-ball club played the Quicksteps, of Wilmington, yesterday. I claimed it was the same club that played the Baltimores on the 5th—the St. Louis Browns, and oblige, FRANK.

[You are right; it was the professional club that represents St. Louis.—ED. P.-D.]

The Bull of Adrian.

ST. Louis, June 2.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Will you kindly inform me through the columns of your valuable paper if the bull given by Pope Adrian IV. to Henry II. of England, commanded the Irish people to receive Henry as their lawful King; and if Alexander III. issued a decree twenty years after in confirmation of the same, and under what authority was the bull issued?

TRALEE.

[We cannot undertake to settle in the brief space of these columns one of the great controverted points of history about which volumes have been written. Catholic belief is that both of the bulls are spurious.—ED. P.-D.]

The Do Good Society.

ST. LOUIS, June 7, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Permit me to suggest this title to Messrs. Adler & Co., the splendid high kickers against Judaism. I would also suggest that an invitation be sent to the "Rev." Bob Ingersoll to assist them in organizing their Bee Line Railroad. It's a sure thing, and I'll bet money the stock will "take." Reflectingly, yours, etc., JACK HARD.

The Commemoration Ode.

ST. LOUIS, June 7, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The lines whose author is asked for by your correspondent in this evening's edition of your paper, are quatrain, and not, as quoted, a couplet, and compose the opening stanza of the "Ode Sung at the Town Hall, Concord, July 4, 1857:

A Reasonable Request.

ST. LOUIS, June 7, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Having noticed with admiration the success attending the various reforms you have inaugurated and championed through the medium of your valued paper, the writer would respectfully solicit your assistance in securing the objects sought for in the following petition, which was presented to the persons named therein a short time since, all of whom signed or promised to sign, with the exception of two, who, although repeatedly requested to sign, absolutely refused to do so, and he, so refusing, released those who had signed.

Now, Mr. Editor, it is unanimouly conceded by the most experienced gentlemen engaged in the business that closing at the hour named in the petition would not injure their business, but would, on the contrary, have a tendency to benefit them for the following reasons, viz.:

1. It is against the laws of God and man to do any unnecessary work on the Sabbath.

2. The two most necessary qualifications of a successful salesman, courtesy and energy, without which it is impossible to make a satisfied customer, can much better be secured by giving these salesmen (many of whom are men of family) an opportunity to obtain a little rest and recreation.

3. The small amount of business transacted after 7:30 p. m. hardly pays expenses, and all of it could as well be done during the time between 7 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Feeling satisfied that with your assistance our efforts would be crowned with success, we would again solicit that assistance which can confer so great a blessing on us, and add one more to your many successes.

Very respectfully yours,
GEO. H. BROWNELL,
No. 9, North Fifth street.

The following is the petition:

ST. LOUIS, April 10, 1883.

We, the following dealers in gents' furnishing goods, viz.: J. F. Wiggins & Co., Sellers & Parrish, F. A. Steer, Fred Ackerman, Appler & Hodge, Gill & Steer, Gilbert Bros., John Poorman, hereby agree with each other that they will, on and after April 15, 1883, for the period of one year, close their respective establishments, excepting Saturday nights, at 7:30 p. m., and will remain closed on Sunday. Fair week and Christmas week to be exceptions to the above rule.

Signs of Summer.

From Puck.

When the youth utilizes the green apples as a base-ball—

When the small boy begins to save up for the Fourth of July—

When a man goes forth and gives ten cents for a large straw-hat—

When strawberries become cheap enough to flourish in boarding-houses—

When the nobby young swell buys a white scarf and a fifty-cent horse-shoe pin—

When eight-dollar flannel suits are stuck out on frames in front of clothing stores—

When the table-d'hote restaurant puts cucumbers on the table instead of radishes—

When a young man consults his friends on the subject of getting up a straw-ride—

When the seal-skin sacque, the furs and the swallow-tail are put away in camphor—

When the owner of several marriageable daughters daily braces up his front gate—

When the stillness of the night is disturbed by the tinkle of the ice-cream peddler's bell—

When the airy young lover invites his girl to go on a moonlight excursion up the Hudson—

When the young lady asks you with a timid smile if you will write your name on her fan—

When the old clothes-line is purloined by the small boy to be converted into a "scup"—

When sample-rooms display great bunches of mint, and the bar-tender is dressed in white, like a bride—

When the old bull dog lies out on the moon-lit lawn and picks trousers-seats out of his teeth with his paws—

When the yellow dog keeps at a respectful distance from his youthful owner and looks nervous when they are near a pond—

When the dry-goods clerk tries to organize a store nine to play other store nines, in order to get away from business for half a day occasionally—

When the young man who belongs to the militia wonders how in the world he is going to get away from business to camp out with his regiment—

When the small boy works half a day cutting a hole through the fence surrounding a base-ball ground, and goes there in the afternoon when the game commences, and finds a larger boy looking through it—

And

When the comic lecturer lays down his jaw, and wraps the drapery of his lecture about him and lies down to pleasant dreams on the back stoop, with plenty of milk punches, and nothing to do but kill mosquitoes—

Then we may know that summer is at hand.

Notable things.

Georgia has had four governors within six months.

A man in Boyd county, Ky., rides to town on a huge Durham bull.

Two young ladies of Crystal Springs, Miss., are shipping rosebuds to Chicago.

In the last year six lynchings have occurred in Alabama, in which eight persons were hanged.

Tullis, a colored man living in Crenshaw county, Ala., owns a chicken which has four wings and four feet.

There are 606 deaf mutes in Mississippi—322 males and 284 females; 317 are white and 289 colored. All are natives of the state but two.

Among the presents at a Flemingsburg, Ky., wedding last week, were two pigs, four towels, three lamps, a corkscrew, a pair of boots and a cat.

A child of William Haley of Stanford, Ky., newly born, weighs exactly one pound. A silver dollar covers its face, and it can be entirely hid in a quart cup.

The Birmingham (Ala.) Age says a young lady of that city, who had been off on a visit, could not find her home upon her return on account of the many improvements.

One of the most accomplished and fascinating young widows in the South manages two large stock farms in Tennessee and resides in a superb mansion in North Carolina.

Rational Dress.

From the London Truth.

The Rational Dress Exhibition may cause a smile, but it will not convert one sensible woman to the views of its promoters. There really is nothing new. It is only a variation of Mrs. Bloomer's ideas. The divided skirt is far more awkward and not half so tasteful as petticoats, and the newly invented dress for young girls is the same as school-girls have worn for years past, only the frock is not so well designed, and the pantalettes are badly cut and made of chintz to match the frock instead of the ordinary white frilled garments which have been associated with school-girls from time immemorial. I did not see one really tasteful costume among the avowedly rational dresses.

Summer Longings.

From the Philadelphia Times.

If this should prove to be a year without a summer, the mamma with marriageable daughters will be driven in a closed carriage to an asylum for the insane next November, and the dude will go into a decline. It has been expected that the dude could be used as a figurehead by anxious mammas, and that he could be made to arouse the jealousies of young men at whom the matrimonial noose is to be thrown. If there is no summer, however, the dude will get tired of himself and the marriageable daughter will fade away like the overblown flower. For the sake of an old-established custom it is to be hoped that the summer at the resorts will be hot and long.

Pied Puffs.

From the New York World.

It is announced that the foreign correspondents assembled at Moscow to glorify the Czar have united in a grand dinner in honor of M. Wagonoff, the Press Censor. In view of the toadyism exhibited by the correspondents in their letters it was the duty of the Press Censor, as the representative of Russian Absolutism, to give the newspaper men a dinner. If the Press Censor or the Czar conclude to extend this courtesy we trust that special pains will be taken to see that the gentlemen who wrote the coronation puffs for the American newspapers are provided with extra-sized pieces of pie.

Teller's Indian Policy.

From the Chicago Times.

Secretary Teller, although a Western man, is not a believer in a war policy in dealing with the Indians. Speaking of Gen. Armstrong's annual report of Hampton School, he says: "The amount of money necessary to carry on the Apache war, if expended in the education of Indians, would put an end to Western wars." Gen. Crook's failure to put down the Apache Indians is probably due to the fact that he is not properly supplied with spelling books.

Logan's Innocence.

From the New York World.

Senator Logan is not directly concerned in the scheme to despoil the Zuni Indians. He is simply using his position and influence to aid some of his relatives in what seems to be one of the most contemptible steals of the age.

CHIHUAHUA.

Interesting Talk with a Citizen of That Mexican City.

H. B. Marks, of Chichuahua, Mexico, is spending the day in the city, at the Planters'. Mr. Marks has been living in Chihuahua for the past eighteen months, connected with the firm of H. J. Toyo & Co., contractors of the Mexican Central railroad. The railroad is now completed 155 miles beyond the city, but passengers are not carried beyond Chihuahua. Construction is progressing at the rate of two and a half miles a day. He describes Chihuahua as a fine old city, full of wealthy Mexicans, and now filling rapidly with Americans. The Americans are going chiefly into manufactures which pay handsome profits. M. T. Anthony, former superintendent of the Mexican Central, has a large lumber mill in operation, which, he says, cannot supply the demand for building materials. Another paying manufacture is that of glass, which commands enormous prices, and for which an abundance of the proper material is convenient. Mr. Ward has just leased a large ranch and has also obtained control of extensive quarries, and part of his business north is to purchase machinery for sawing stone. He says the stone is magnesia limestone which is so soft when first taken from the quarry as to be easily cut with a hand-saw, but afterwards hardens and makes durable building material. Some buildings over two hundred years old in Chihuahua are constructed of it and are as fine and solid now as when first built.

The Wrestling Tournament.

At three o'clock this afternoon the world's wrestling tournament will be inaugurated at Sportsman's Park. The contests will take place on a canvas-covered pile of carpets in the base ball diamond. All persons are excluded from the field except the contestants, their seconds, and the umpire and referee. Tom Kelly has consented to serve as referee. The sport will open with a bout between Edwin Bibby, the Englishman who gave Muldoon so much trouble, and Clarence Whistler, the Kansas City phenomenon. They will engage in the Græco-Roman style. Andre Christol, the agile Frenchman, who was one of the first to popularize the Græco-Roman sport in this country, will meet Fred Zachritz, a local celebrity, and, perhaps, Bixermos, the great French athlete. Cannon and Bixermos will also engage. The programme of to-day will conclude with a bout between Alexis Lawrence and Ernst Freno, both St. Louisans. The programme for to-morrow has not been arranged as yet, but will introduce the two styles of catch-as-catch-can and Græco-Roman. Bixermos will also show his wonderful strength against two draft horses. On Sunday all the wrestles will appear, and there will be in additional a game of base ball between the semi-professional Grand Avenues and the West End. John Ewing, the new St. Louis player, will make his first appearance, with the Grand Avenues. Connor, the wrestler who broke down under a too severe course of training, is suffering with intermittent fever and will not take part in the tournament.

Equines for the Races.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon a special train will leave the race-track of the Louisville Jockey Club with fifteen car-loads of thoroughbreds bound for St. Louis to take part in the meeting next week. Pate's entire string is of the number. This morning Col. Hunt's string of six, headed by the world-beater, John Davis, arrived in a special car and are now quartered at the Cote Brilliante track. Cassidy's stable, with the celebrated thoroughbreds, Blazes, Saunterer, Tilford, Misdance, Campanini and Carson, also came in over the O. & M. railroad, and were taken at once to the track. The weather promises to remain fine, the track is in splendid condition, and there will be more horses in the races next week than at any previous meeting. A highly successful meeting is assured.

CARONDELET JOTTINGS.

The railroad engineers are removing their families to the vicinity of Lesperance street as fast as residences can be found. Three families removed yesterday.

A good deal of surprise is felt here at the sudden disappearance of Mr. Prescott, prosecuting attorney of the Police Court. It is thought he has gone to Colorado.

Mr. Marquette, who was severely bruised yesterday by being thrown against a railroad switch, was able to sit up this morning. Dr. Charles Hull is in attendance and pronounces no bones broken. It is the first time in two years that Mr. Marquette has not been in his place as an employe of the railroad.

A book agent some time ago secured a large number of subscriptions for a history of St. Louis, price $8. An agent has been here for some time delivering the books, and the subscribers, to their astonishment, find that $18 is demanded. A few have taken the books, but loudly denounce what they declare is an infamous swindle. Some refused absolutely to receive them, and yesterday, in an altercation between the agent and a subscriber the books were left upon the sidewalk, and afterward picked up by a policeman and taken to the station.

THE Pioneer Band of Mercy gave an enjoyable entertainment last evening at Turner Hall, Carondelet. Of the 400 Bands of Mercy in the country, over 100 have been formed within the last month, which speaks well for the progress of the work. There are three bands in St. Louis. The Pioneer Band will hold a meeting on Sunday, June 17, at 4 p. m., at Mission Chapel.

LICENSE LAW.

The Architects Band Togethe[r] Stand by a Test Case.

Collector Hudson Forces a Number of Keepers to Step Up and Pay the Lic[ense] No Time to be Lost in Settling the Questions.

The license fight on the architects was d[isposed] of temporarily in the First District Police [Court] this morning. Thirty-eight cases of doing [ar]chitect's business without a license were [call]ed. The attorney for the defendants and [the] attorney agreed to regularly dispose of o[ne] and let the others abide by the result of th[at]. The case of John W. T[he case] will then be taken to the Court of A[ppeals], where a pro forma judgment will be [entered] affirming the decision. Then the matter [will be] taken before the State Supreme Court nex[t Octo]ber, and every effort will be made to have [it dis]posed of at the earliest date. All the case[s insti]tuted in this court will be dispo[sed of] with a view to the action of the higher c[ourt in] the case of Herthel, which will serve to [settle] the points on which the architects hope [to defeat] the license law. The Columbia Receiver Clamoring f[or] Pay—The Mutual's Claims.

Judge Thayer to-day rendered a decisi[on in the] matter of the claim of the St. Louis Mut[ual Life] Insurance receiver upon the estate of th[e Colum]bia Life Insurance Company. The court [is of the] opinion that all policy claimants [of the] St. Louis Mutual who paid p[remiums] on their policies to the Columbia subse[quent to] the contract of re-insurances are entitled [to par]ticipate on equal terms with policy-holde[rs of the] Columbia in the distribution of the pr[oceeds of] the Columbia's special deposit, now amo[unting to] $60,911.47. LICENSE LAW.

The Architects Band Together and Stand by a Test Case.

Collector Hudson Forces a Number of Hotel-Keepers to Step Up and Pay the License—No Time to be Lost in Settling the Legal Questions.

The license fight on the architects was disposed of temporarily in the First District Police Court this morning. Thirty-eight cases of doing an architect's business without a license were docketed. The attorney for the defendants and the city attorney agreed to regularly dispose of one case and let the others abide by the result of this trial. The case of John W. Herthel was called and a deputy collector sworn and placed on the witness stand. He swore that the defendant was an architect carrying on business without a license. These facts the defense conceded and the city offered the disputed ordinance in evidence, and on this statement of the case rested. No defense was offered, and Judge Jecko ordered that a fine of $100 be entered. When the other cases were called the marshal reported that service had not been secured on Henry N. Melcher, H. Kennedy and Alex. L. Mills. These three cases were continued until the 22d inst. Continuances generally were entered in the cases of William Beattie, J. H. McNamara, George W. Pipe, James Stewart, James McGrath, Charles K. Ramsey, E. C. Jansen, Edward Jungenfield, Frank A. Renick, Patrick F. Meagher, Otto P. Koenig, A. J. Wilhelmy, Alfred Grabble, Henry G. Isaacs, J. B. Legg, Wm. H. Kirchner, Wm. C. Slicer, Thomas Walsh, Chas. F. May, Thos. W. Brady, Edward Mortimer, John G. Cairns, Jos. W. Givens, Chas. B. Clark, Charles E. Illsley, George D. Burnett, Isaac S. Taylor, Thomas J. Furlong, F. D. Lee, John F. Mitchel, Wm. F. Roeder, August Bennicke, Thomas B Amnan and A. Druiding. Concerning the settlement of this fight, City Attorney Clover said: "We will dispose of the matter as soon as we possibly can. By agreement this morning a test case was selected and the evidence taken, the defendant granting the city the testimony offered, as the fight will be on the law points. The other cases were continued generally except against two or three defendants on whom service was not secured, and whose cases were consequently not in the same condition with the rest. No time will be lost in finally settling the matter, as it has been agreed to appeal the case to the Court of Criminal Correction, where the city will be allowed to take judgment. The case will then be taken to the Court of Appeals, where a pro forma judgment will be entered affirming the decision. Then the matter will be taken before the State Supreme Court next October, and every effort will be made to have it disposed of at the earliest date. All the cases instituted in this court will be disposed of with a view to the action of the higher courts in the case of Herthel, which will serve to develop the points on which the architects hope to beat the license law. I don't know yet what points they propose to present, but I think the law is a good one."

HOTEL LICENSES.

The following cases of keeping hotel without license were disposed of to-day: John Baude and John Burch, nolle prossed; J. E. Weber, continued to June 12; H. D. Pittman, nolle prossed; August J. Pope, dismissed for want of service, the defendant having vacated the premises five months ago; Henry Suisdorf, Isabella Hughes, William Bartling, Caroline Shultz, Fred Bach, D. S. Cairns, Charles Seng, J. M. Ward, Casper Scharf, G. Roth, nolle prossed. The remaining cases were continued as follows: Michael W. Quinn to July 6th, Fred Wiseman to June 12. The case against J. H. Robertson was dismissed for want of service, and that of John and Jos. Girardi dismissed at costs.

These cases have been pending in the Police Court for several months, having been instituted by the Collector. As will be seen by the disposition of the cases the majority of the defendants paid the license designated by the ordinance, and the cases were accordingly nolle prossed, or continued to give defendants an opportunity to decide between settling accounts with the collector or standing prosecution in the Police Courts.

ESTATE EATERS.

The Columbia Receiver Clamoring for More Pay—The Mutual's Claims.

Judge Thayer to-day rendered a decision in the matter of the claim of the St. Louis Mutual Life Insurance receiver upon the estate of the Columbia Life Insurance Company. The court is of the opinion that all policy claimants of the St. Louis Mutual who paid premiums on their policies to the Columbia subsequent to the contract of re-insurances are entitled to participate on equal terms with policy-holders of the Columbia in the distribution of the proceeds of the Columbia's special deposit, now amounting to $60,911.47. Policy claimants of the Mutual who neither exchanged their policies nor paid premiums to the Columbia are not entitled to share in the distribution of that fund. The court dissents from the proposition that the advances heretofore made by the receiver of the Columbia to the Mutual receivers should simply be deducted from the gross allowance made in the Mutual's favor against the assets of the Columbia. On the contrary, the court thinks that the sum-total of advances made to the Mutual receivers should be treated as a payment made on account of any dividends that Mutual policy-holders are entitled to receive out of the Columbia assets. The aggregate advances by the Columbia to the Mutual estates is found to be $63,600, not including clerk-hire. This sum must be treated as a dividend paid to Mutual policy-holders out of the assets of the Columbia. The Columbia policy-holders must receive an equal percentage on their claims before the Mutual policy-holders will be entitled to participate in the distribution of the Columbia's assets. The receiver of the Columbia is directed to forthwith report the total sum in his hands, in order that a dividend may be ordered.

MORE PAY WANTED.

Recorder Alexander, before doing this, however, is determined to fix the Court's mind on the question of compensation for his services, and for that purpose expert testimony was introduced this morning. Chas. C. Chouteau, Ed. C. Simmons, Dr. Mathews; referee, Thos. C. Reynolds. Several of the counsel who have fattened on the great insurance carcass and others, were placed on the stand to give their views of what a receiver's pay should be under the circumstances. Details of the labor performed were given. Receiver Alexander has already received, on account of his services, $21,000, the estate having been in his hands since October, 1877, five years and a half. The witnesses summoned in his behalf thought that his allowance should aggregate from $6,000 to $12,000 per annum. Mr. Simmons gave the lowest estimate, Mr. C. P. Chouteau the highest. The others gave the medium estimate, $9,000 per annum or 5 per cent of the collections. If the court is guided by the testimony to-day there will be very little money left for distribution among the unfortunate policy-holders. The matter was taken under advisement.

An Early Morning Collison on the Iron Mountain Road.

At about two o'clock this morning the freight train going south on the Iron Mountain road, in charge of Conductor Laws and Engineer Baker, when near Silver Cliff, ran into the freight train coming north, the collision resulting in the complete destruction of both engines and a number of the cars. Both trains were running at a fair rate of speed, and the crash when the two locomotives came together sounded like a clap of thunder in the still air of midnight, arousing people at a considerable distance from their slumbers. The force with which the trains met is shown by the fact that the fifth car of the south-bound train was carried forward by the momentum until it rested on top of the wrecked engines. Luckily the working forces of both trains were apprised of the impending catastrophe in time to leap for their lives, and no loss of life or injury of limb resulted from the accident. Conductor Laws and Engineer Baker, who were not running by orders and made a mistake as to the place at which they were to pass the up-bound train, were obliged to shoulder the full responsibility for the disaster, and shortly after its occurrence they walked back to the Barracks and telegraphed off their resignations. At noon to-day the line was still burdened with the wreckage, the shattered locomotives lying upon the track an almost indistinguishable mass of shapeless material, while behind each spread out a mass of broken freight cars and miscellaneous merchandise. The passenger trains from Texas and New Orleans, and the DeSoto train, were unable to pass the obstruction, while the Southern bound trains were held on switches near the Barracks. The damage is estimated in the neighborhood of $75,000.

Picnic Parties—Dinners—A Worth Costume—Rumored Marriages.

Summer was ushered in by June, and in its train picnics, garden-theater parties and excursions. Quite a little party of ladies and gentlemen enjoyed an excursion to Creve Cœur Lake on Wednesday. Leaving the city by the one o'clock train they returned at 6:30, in time to enjoy the comic opera at the Cave. The party was composed of Misses Ida and Julia Valle, Mimi Morrison, Estelle Dickson, Nellie Schuyler, Theresa Taylor, Georgie McKenzie, Mimika Farish, and Messrs. Ferd. Provenchere, W. W. Cooke, Hamilton Farish, Pierre Chouteau, Will Beckley and John Alden. They were chaperoned by Mrs. Don Morrison. An elegant luncheon was provided and enjoyed on the lakeside beneath the trees. Another party go out to Creve Cœur next week. Several garden parties have been arranged for the cave, Mr. Ralph Humes giving one early in the week. There are also several parties already made up for the races, when the Tally-Ho will be in requisition.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Garneau gave a very elegant dinner party on Tuesday evening in honor of Bishop Ryan, at which Father Gleeson was also present. The table decorations were very handsome and a number of courses, embracing all the delicacies of the season, was served with appropriate wines. Among the guests were: Mrs Devereux, widow of Judge Devereux, and sister of the Bishop; Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Hutchinson, Mr. and Mrs. Kennett, Mrs. Pallen and others.

Mrs. Ike Cook gave a handsome dinner on Thursday in honor of Mr. Douglas Cook, whose birthday was then celebrated. A very elaborate menu of twelve courses was served to sixteen guests. The floral decorations were superb, a large oblong basket, three feet long, filled with Jacquimenot and Marshal Neil roses, occupying the center of the table, and a loose bunch of exquisite buds, tied with satin ribbons, was laid at each plate. There were present Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Wainright, Mr. and Mrs. Saunders Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lucas, Miss Laura Taylor, Miss Dora Dale, Miss Letta Davidson, and Messrs. Ben. Stickney, Sam Benton, Warne and Capt. Ernest, of the Engineer Corps.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Cable, of Rock Island, Iowa, having made a tour around the world, returned last week, and having first visited his parents at Rock Island, are spending this week in the city with Mrs. Cable's aunt, Mrs. Col. Brant, of Chouteau avenue. It is just one year since Mrs. Cable, née Marie Benton, one of St. Louis' belles, was made a bride, and her first appearance among her friends since her return was at the marriage of her friend, Miss Mary Breckenridge, another one of St. Louis' daughters, who leaves to grace the home of Mr. Richard Cross, of Baltimore. Mrs. Cable's toilet upon this occasion was one of Worth's most exquisite creations, a pale blue silk en train over a petticoat, enriched by delicate embroideries; Modjeska corsage filled with rich point lace, and a circlet of filigree silver around her throat; coiffure high in pompadour puffs, confined with numerous silver pins; handsome diamond ornaments.

It is now positively stated that Mrs. Belle Borup will be married on the 27th of this month to Lieut. Irwin, of the Fourth Calvary. They will go East immediately after their marriage, and spend the summer at the sea shore, returning to St. Louis in the fall for a short visit before going to his post at New Mexico.

There is a rumor that the handsome, dark-eyed widow of a distinguished cavalry general deceased, is engaged to a cavalry general prominent in social circles as well as in the army. Nous verrons.

Mr. C. Clay Easton, brother of General L. C. Easton, U. S. A. retired officer, was married on Wednesday, to Miss Euphrosel Yoste, of St. Charles, Mo.

Mr. Taylor Bryan having completed, his course at the law school, has gone to Colorado for a few weeks rest; from there he will go to Texas, where he will spend the summer with his brother, Mr. Frank Bryan, upon his ranche, returning to St. Louis in the fall. Mr. John Bryan spends the next two years in Europe studying his profession of medicine.

Mr. Abram Nave is at present in Texas, and will return in six weeks, when Mrs. Nave will join him at St. Joseph, which will be their future home. Miss Lillie Woolridge will remain in the city with friends until August, when she will go to the Springs for the remainder of the season.

THE TATTLER.

The "Gum Exchange" at the St. George's Excursion—Artistic Chewing.

I am so happy, I have learned to chew! Why shouldn't I? My big brother chews, and I have certain reasons, which I do not consider it necessary to give, for thinking that my sweetheart chews also—but then it is usually quite late when he leaves me at night, so I can not be positive about it. At any rate, Mamma says it is vulgar, and has positively prohibited it, but last Saturday a lot of us girls went in St. George's excursion, determined to have a jolly time, and we did. Everybody said it was going to be the swell affair of the season, and so it was; each girls face was so swollen that I was sure they had the toothache, Rosa laughed at me, and asked me to take a "chew," and gave me a nice little wad of gum that she had stuck under her basque for future use, and in a moment I was just as happy as the little fellow that steals into the coal shed to enjoy his first cigar. In a little while we found ourselves part and parcel of the that circled around the jubilee singers. Oh, Sallie Lewis is a lovely chewer! How envied her the strength of her jaw and the capacity of her mouth, for I am sure I had not more than half as big a piece as she had, and yet—I am ashamed to confess it—my jaws ached, and I was obliged to stop every now and then. And Georgie Anderson: you know how pretty she is? Well, she was just as pretty chewing gum, and I really believe that all of these young men envied the gum, that made so close acquaintance with her pretty mouth, and was patted and pressed so tenderly between her fairy fingers. I know you'll hardly believe it, but John McNair was just as good at chewing as if he was a natural born girl. He rolled the gum like a sweet morsel under his tongue and looked so happy I know he enjoyed it, indeed he told me he had never had so much fun since he left off dresses. I was so glad to see that the poor jubilee singers enjoyed it, too, for they kept a piece in their mouth, and between verses would chew with such unction that they threatened to throw us girls in the shade, but they didn't—there were too many of us engaged at it. There were: Laura Perry, Bettie Boffinger, Julia Shorb, Fanita Hayward, Sallie Crane, Ollie Harding, Annie Melton, Minnie Laurence, Jennie Nanson, Belle Billingsby, Emma Barney, Carrie Shelby, Lillie Garrison, Jennie Minn and Will Hickman, Will Smyth, Crawford Kendricks, Warren Johngon, Allen Hooker, Tom Edwards, Will Garrison, Richard Perry, Turner Lewis, T. P. Dyer, Dr. P. S. O'Reilley and lots of others, and last but not least the two dudes, whose names I will not call, because it did not improve their appearance. In fact, they may not have been chewing; they may have been struggling with "'alf a dawnce." I have been practicing ever since, and I think by Saturday week I will be in good trim for St. Peter's excursion. One will run out of talk; and there are so many empty-headed people in the world, if they can only chew they will never be discovered. "But, for goodness' sake, don't say I told you," and you will hear again from "THE TATTLER."

THE LOUNGER.

PROF. ADLER was entertaining a number of his friends with his philosophical reflections when the subject turned on the labor question, and the professor remarked: "The great need of the workingmen is intelligent leaders among themselves. They are unfit for coöperation or arbitration until they have intelligence enough to understand their proper position and the true relations of things. Our school in New York is established for the very purpose of training up intelligent workmen who, while competent to do good work themselves, yet have intelligence sufficient to consider the problems presented to them with reason and wisdom. We have boy bosses for our miniature workshops, but no boy gets to be a boss except on account of superior merit, and all of the boys are taught to submit to authority gained by merit alone. The only solution of the labor question is the proper education of the laboring classes, so that they shall be fitted for coöperation, and also the imbuing of them with the proper sense of the nobility of labor."

"THAT'S something you wouldn't see in a long time," said a well-known tobacco dealer as a dudish young man walked away from the stand. "That young fellow bought three good cigars and wanted one cigarette. I offered to throw in the cigarette, but he insisted on paying a nickel for it, and refused to take more than one." "Do you have much demand for those?" suggested the reporter, indicating a bunch of cigars marked 50 cents. "No, very little; if you should smoke one of those cigars you wouldn't think they were good at all, because every man thinks the kind of a cigar he is accustomed to the best." The reporter winced and tried to put on an offended 50-cent-cigar air, but failed. The tobacco man continued: "Just bring in a man from the back woods who is used to smoking stogies and treat him to a fifteen-center, and ten to one he will say, 'Why, we get better cigars than this up our way for five cents.' It is the same way with good liquor. I have seen men come in from the country whose every-day drink was fiery rot-gut, complain that the good whisky shoved over the best bars in the city was half water because it didn't taste strong, and generally before they knew it they had to be put to bed."

PROBABLY among the many talented divines in this city none of them present a purer type of intellectuality than Dr. Ganse. He is the the ideal student of whom Burton gives us some quaint pictures in his "Anatomy of Melancholy." All of the grosser animalism of man seems in him to have been absorbed by his brain, and he gives the impression of one the chief functions of whose body is to contain and nourish his brain—an incarnation of logical thought, so to speak. Few who have met Dr. Ganse have not bowed to the accuracy and strength of his reasoning powers. The chief claim of his discourse lies in the lucid clearness of his exposition. Exactness and accuracy seems almost to be a mania with him, and he never permits a word to escape him until its exact and full meaning has been mentally bounded. As a result he holds the average reporter in horror, and seldom submits to an interview without the most careful precautions. I remember I was detailed once to interview the Doctor on a subject which he felt compelled to speak about. I managed to catch him in his study, and stated the case. "Well, sir," said he, in his curtest tones, "what do you want from me?" I explained the phase of the question I wanted him to discuss, and prepared pencil and paper for use. The Doctor put his hands to his head and thought deeply for a few minutes; then he pulled out his type-writer and, after manipulating the keys for about twenty minutes, he took out the paper and carefully correcting every word, handed it over to me, saying, "Now, please publish that just as it is." It was a complete interview, even beginning with the customary "Dr. Ganse says."

W. W. COLE, the showman, is the counterpart of the ideal circus man. I saw him walk into the Lindell yesterday, and I do not think any casual spectator would ever have dreamed that the sombrely-dressed, self-contained, self-poised, extremely quiet looking man had spent the greater part of his life near the dust of the arena. He might be taken for an F. F. V., a millionaire by birth, or a pastor of some large church. His face is of pure Roman mould, and might easily have been clipped from an ancient medallion or a Cæsarian coin. He always dresses in a simple, dark suit, and wears a plain, black nectie, but despite his easy, quiet manners and appearance, there is something in his face and carriage that denotes the man of nerve and action.

I MET a quiet little gentleman, short, stout, plainly dressed, with piercing black eyes and a ruddy complexion, walking down Fifth street this morning. He bustled along at a quick gait and nobody seemed to know him. Yet few men in St. Louis have more friends than Rev. Bro. Patrick. He was stationed here years ago, at the old college on Eighth street. Since then his ability and business capacity have brought him to the front rank in the order of the Brothers of the Christian Schools. He is now assistant superior general, being second highest in rank in the order in the world. His present visit to St. Louis is in the interest of the new college at Cote Brilliante, and has large acquaintance among prominent citizens and business men, whom he knew when they were boys, will help him greatly in his undertaking.

COL. CHAS. L. HUNT, whose horse, John Davis, won so handsomely at Louisville, yesterday, is the only horseman in the country who ever put any faith in Davis. The horse has always been a rascal. When Sam. Ecker owned him his sulkiness and bad temper were so phenomenal that that Ecker once offered to sell him for $80, and at another time had made up his mind to hitch him to the harrow and use him for work at the track. Up to last year he was always run with heavy blinds because of his bolting. If he once caught sight of the crowd no fence was high enough to keep him on the track. A jockey one day determined to kill or cure him. He rode him with a club instead of a whip, and, when Davis started for the fence as usual, the jockey struck him with the club between the ears and felled him. In an hour Davis recovered and he has not since been known to bolt much since. Col. Hunt always thought Davis a good one, and the horse proved it yesterday by beating such good blue-blood cracks as Lida Stanhope, Paul Jennings, Checkmate, Bondholder and Farragut.

I WAS talking to a well-known insurance agent to-day, and he told me, what at first seems strange, that hundreds of men in this city were doing business with their chances of living as their only capital. What he meant and said was that it was now very common for men to insure their lives for the purpose of using the policy to raise money. They give this as security for funds to start business, to travel, and several young fellows have even been enabled to visit foreign universities and secure legal and medical education in this novel way. It is common, yet it seems strange. The agent assured me that it was looked on as nothing rare at all.

GOLDEN EAGLE.

Killed by the Cars.

At half-past four o'clock this morning the horribly mangled remains of some unknown man were found on track No. 25 of the Sixteenth street yards. From the appearances of the track the man, after being struck, must have been dragged fully half a block. The left arm and both legs were cut off entirely and the head shockingly cut up and almost severed from the body. Near the body an empty dinner bucket was found, and from the clothes worn by the man it is supposed he was a workman on his way home from work. The last train that moved out of the yards prior to the finding of the body was at eight o'clock last night, the engine being in charge of Wm. Goodell, but neither he nor any of the switchmen know anything of the accident. The discovery of the body was made by a man living near the scene, who, noticing a hat lying on the track, went out to investigate, and found the owner in the condition described. The two night-watchmen, Cornelius Carrelton and Barney Donahue, also knew nothing about the accident. Shortly after the finding of the body the patrol-wagon took it to the Morgue, where it now lies awaiting identification.

"WHY HE LAUGHS."

One of the Seven Finds Food For Merriment in Filley's Tactics.

He was standing on a street corner near the Four Courts this morning, smiling vigorously, while a morning paper was held before his face. He was one of the Seven, and he had just finished reading how the Republican members of the Council were trying to effect a compromise with Judge Vastine, Mr. Zelle and ex-Citizen Cummings. Observing the hilarious obstructionist, a POST-DISPATCH reporter approached and courteously inquired why he laughed.

"I smile," he said, "to think how the Mayor and his friends are feeling the power of the seven. I smile to think that Rowse, Scudder and Parker should imagine that they can break the coalition."

"Can't it be broken?"

"Well, not with a feather duster, anyhow."

"Are there any terms upon which you will agree to let the appointments go through?"

"Oh, yes, indeed. If the Mayor will consent to sacrifice Filley and Turner I think all will be lovely for the rest of the slate."

"Why are Filley and Turner selected as the victims?"

"Filley, because we are unanimously agreed that he shall not hold office, and Turner because Messrs. Zelle and Cummings are opposed to him."

"What about Bell?"

"If Bell's name is sent in he will be rejected, but there is no reason why it should be sent in, is there? But Filley and Turner can't hold office with our consent under any circumstances whatever."

"Has the Mayor signified his willingness to agree to your terms?"

"He has not, so far as I am concerned. I think he is too diplomatic entirely. I think he is trying to make his point without sacrificing any of his original appointees. Well, he won't do it, that's all."

"What about the general appropriation bill?"

"The general appropriation bill will go through as slick as a whistle; there won't be the least trouble about that."

"Then the special session will be a short one, unless the Mayor sends in his slate?"

"Yes, sir. It will be a short one in any event. Let him send in his appointments, and let us enjoy the privilege which the charter confers upon us to reject or confirm. That is all we have ever asked."

"Do you deny that your original compact was to reject all the Mayor's appointments without exception?"

"No, I don't; but I assert that since that time we have reconsidered our programme, and for weeks have been prepared to act upon the appointments just as other Councils have before us, but we have not been given the opportunity, and it begins to look as if we never were to enjoy the opportunity as long as Mr. Filley continues to work the wires."

"What has Filley to do with it?"

"Everything. He simply tells the Mayor that he shall not make a single appointment until assurances are given that Filley's own nomination as Assessor and Collector of Water Rates will be approved."

The reporter subsequently called on the Mayor, but the most skilful pumping failed to draw forth any information upon the subject mentioned in the foregoing interview with the mirthful member of the Solid Seven Club.

THE STRIKING MINERS.

Unfounded Rumors of Trouble Yesterday—Another Amazonian Demonstration.

An incursion of striking miners from the Belleville district was expected yesterday at Collinsville, and preparations were made by the operators to give them a warm reception. Work was carried on all day long at the Abbey machine mines, Nos. 3 and 4, where sixty men were at work. All of these miners were armed with revolvers and breech-loading shot-guns. Almost all the mines now being operated are stockaded and watched night and day, while each of the working miners keeps loaded shot-guns and revolvers by his side to be ready in case of emergency. It was reported in the city late yesterday afternoon that a band of 500 striking miners, bearing banners containing the words "Wages or Blood," had left Belleville and started for the Abbey Mines, but this proved to be an exaggeration. A committee of two from the strikers called yesterday upon the owners of machine mines to learn what concessions the latter were willing to make. They failed to gain any promise of concession, and, before retiring, said they would return to-day for a final answer. It is believed by many that this means there will be no further rioting until the machine operators have definitely stated their position.

At Pinckneyville, Jacob Faust, his two sons and David Blum, while about to go to work in the Beaucoup mines were met by a delegate of fifteen women, armed with clubs and chunks of coal, who ordered them not to begin work. Mr. Becker, the operator, made his appearance, and told the men to go to work, but the women intimidated them and they departed.

Mason Township Bonds.

E. M. Dulaney, of Hannibal, Mo., is in the city stopping at the Planters'. Mr. Dulaney is the commissioner appointed to compromise the railroad bonds of Mason township, in Marion county, under a proposition carried by the voters of the township almost unanimously. The bonds were issued in 1868 for the Hannibal and Central Missouri Railroad to the amount of $200,000. Interest was paid on them until 1876, when payment was stopped under the decision of the Supreme Court in the Bates county bonds; since then the interest has accumulated until, with the principal, it amounts to $356,000, which amount is to be compromised at 72½ per cent for bonds not in judgment, and 82½ per cent for bonds in judgment. Mr. Dulaney says the bonds are held by parties scattered all over the country, but that he is meeting with good success in the compromise, as he compromised yesterday about $70,000 worth.

Administrators' Notices.

TRUSTEE'S SALE.—Whereas, by his deed of trust dated the 1st day of June, 1881, and recorded in book 658, page 42, of the records in the office of the Recorder of Deeds for the City of St. Louis and State of Missouri, Charles W. Crutsinger conveyed the property in said deed described to the undersigned in trust, to secure the payment of the note mentioned in said deed of trust, which was for a balance of purchase money for said property, and which said note is now past due and unpaid; Now, therefore, at the request of the legal holder of the same, I will sell the following described property, described in said deed of trust, to-wit: A certain lot of ground in block number ten hundred and fifty-nine (1059) of said city of St. Louis and block number five (5) of subdivision of section sixteen; beginning at the junction of the west line of lot number seven (7) with the north line of Lindell avenue, four hundred and one feet one and seven-eighths inches (401 1⅞") west of the west line of Ware avenue, thence north along the west line of said lot number seven (7) ninety-six feet ten and three-quarters inches (96-10¾") to an alley, thence east ten feet one inch (10-1) more or less to a point three hundred and seventy-one feet six inches (371 6") west of the west line of Ware avenue, thence south ninety-three feet five inches (93 feet 5 inches), more or less, to Lindell avenue to a point three hundred and sixty-nine feet two inches (369 feet 2 inches) west of the west line of Ware avenue, thence west along the north line of Lindell avenue thirty-one feet eleven and three-quarter inches (31 feet 11¾ inches) to the place of beginning, at the eastern front door of the Court-house in said city of St. Louis, on between the hours of ten o'clock in the forenoon and three o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, for the purposes of said deed of trust.

TUESDAY, THE 26TH DAY OF JUNE, 1883,

Okawville, Ill.

Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

OKAWVILLE, June 7.—The public schools closed Tuesday last. The directors and many citizens were in attendance. Everything passed off in a very satisfactory manner.——On Sunday evening last, six miles south of here at Plum Hill, quite a tragedy occurred. A young lady by the name of Woesing was passing along the road, when a somewhat idiotic young man by name of Ader, rushed upon the girl with an axe, slashing her over the head with the same, inflicting serious wounds. He was arrested, and not being able to give the required bond, is now in the Nashville Jail.——M. A. Morgan, who has been in Missouri during the past week, is back.——United States Surveyor Smith has been engaged for some time in tracing up in this township all Government swamp lands, and finds it to amount to considerable.

Jacksonville, Ill.

JACKSONVILLE, ILL, June 7.—A man by the name of Thomas Richards was run over on the Wabash and Pacific Railroad some eight miles east of this place on Tuesday evening last, and so badly injured that he died early yesterday morning.——The annual commencement of Illinois College occurred this morning, and the commencement exercises of the Illinois Female College were held this afternoon at Grace M. E. Church, at which time the Rev. Dr. Ninde, of the Garrett Biblical Institute, Evanston, delivered an address. Under the presidency of Rev. E. A. Tanner, D. D., the past year of the Illinois College has been the most successful in all its history, and the prospect for the coming year is even more flattering than the past has been. The trustees were most fortunate in the selection of Dr. Tanner as president. Illinois College has a history of more than fifty years, and numbers among her alumni some of Illinois' most illustrious sons.——The closing exercises of the Institution for the Education of the Deaf and Dumb will be held Tuesday, the 12th inst., and will close the commencement week for 1883. A large class will graduate, and the exercises will be very interesting.——The total number killed and of those who have died since, in the cyclone that occurred at Liter on the 18th of last month, is ten. The remainder of the wounded are doing well, and will most likely recover.

FOUR COURTS.

A Murder Case Closed in the Criminal Court and Another Begun in the C. C. C.—Other Cases.

Arguments in the case of John Nelson, who was tried yesterday for the killing of John Smith at the foot of Poplar street, occupied the morning session of the Criminal Court to-day. Mr. Ben. Clark made the argument for the defense and M. F. McDonald for the State.

Otto L. Dierberger's preliminary examination was specially set for this afternoon in the Court of Criminal Correction, when the evidence in the Horne killing, which occurred on a Market street car, will be canvassed. An effort will be made to get Dierberger out on bail, as he is prepared to furnish large security.

A charge of petit larceny against Henry Bode was dismissed for want of prosecution in the Court of Criminal Correction to-day. The same entries were made in the cases of Lena Amler, charged with assault to kill, and Jake Casey, assault and battery.

Motions for new trial in the case of Thomas McNeary and P. Hartman, and to commute in the case of James Powers, were overruled to-day by Judge Noonan.

A charge of wife abandonment against Joseph Schimmel was continued generally in the Court of Criminal Correction to-day.

Charles Hoffe was sent to jail for six months from the Court of Criminal Correction this morning for a small larceny.

The charge of fraud which was entered against James L. McClannahan was nolle pros'd to-day.

DOCTOR WHITTIER

617 St. Charles Street, St. Louis, Mo.,

A regular graduate of two medical colleges, has been longer engaged in the treatment of Chronic, Nervous, Skin and Blood Diseases than any other physician in St. Louis, as city papers show and all old residents know. Consultation at office or by mail, free and invited. A friendly talk or opinion costs nothing. When it is inconvenient to visit the city for treatment, medicine can be sent by mail or express everywhere. Curable cases guaranteed; where doubt exists it is frankly stated.

Nervous Prostration, Debility, Mental and Physical Weakness, Mercurial and other affections of Throat, Skin and Bones, Blood Impurities and Blood Poisoning, Skin Affections, Old Sores and Ulcers, Impediments to Marriage, Rheumatism, Piles. Especial attention to cases from over-worked brain. SURGICAL Cases receive Special Attention.

Diseases arising from Indiscretion, Excess Exposure or Indulgence, producing some of the following effects: Nervousness, Debility, Dimness of Sight or Perverted Vision, Defective Memory, Pimples on the Face, Aversion to Society of Females, Want of Pleasure in Life, Want of Ambition, Unfitness to Marry, Melancholy, Dyspepsia, Headache, Restlessness, Loss of Spirits, Pains in the Back, etc., are treated with unparalleled success. Treatment, without hindrance to business, safe, sure and permanent. Sent everywhere by mail or express.

It is self-evident that a physician paying particular attention to a class of cases attains great skill, and physicians in regular practice all over the country, knowing this, frequently recommend cases to this oldest office in America, where every known appliance is resorted to, and the proved good remedies of all ages and countries are used. A whole house is used for office purposes, and all are treated with skill in a respectful manner; and knowing what to do, no experiments are made.

A Trotter Beating Steam.

From the Spirit of the Times.

Mr. Nathan Straus, a member of the Gentlemen's Driving Association, is sojourning at Rudolstaett, Thuringen, Germany. He writes: "I recently drove my bay gelding Defendum, record 2:35, from here to Kahla, a distance of twenty-two kilometres--fourteen miles--in fifty minutes, and, after resting a few hours, returned in fifty-five minutes. The cars require forty minutes to make the run; and when you take into consideration the time required to go to and from the depot, I can any fair day drive the distance with my horse just as quickly as the trains go--that is, from my villa here to the hotel in Kahla. At any rate, I have made offers to back Defendum to go from here to that place quicker than the train, say from one Court-house to the other. I contemplate making a long tour with him soon, as I cannot get up a race, either in Nice or Paris. I will make one more effort to match him in Berlin in July."

It is Found Nowhere Else as on a Farm.

Bill Arp in Atlanta Constitution.

Farming is a slow way to make money, but then there is a law of compensation about everything in this life, and farming has its blessings that other pursuits do not have. The farmer belongs to nobody. He is the freest man upon earth and the most independent. He has more latitude and longitude. He has a house in the country, with plenty of pure air and good water. If he makes but little in the field, he has no occasion to spend but little. He can raise his own hogs and sheep and cattle and chickens. His wood costs nothing, and the luxury of big back-logs and blazing fires in open fireplaces all winter long is something that city people long for, but cannot afford. My own farm cost me $7,000. I have 120 acres of open land in good condition, and it yields me on an average about $5 an acre over all expenses. Say nine per cent upon the investment. Well, that is mighty little, considering my own labor and supervision I've seen the time when I made five times as much without any capital except my head. But then we have to keep a pair of horses to ride around and they have to be fed from the farm.

There are little leaks all round, but still we are happier on the farm than we were in the town, and feel more secure from the ills of life. We fear no pestilence or disease, no burglars or thieves. We lock no doors, and Mrs. Arp has quit looking under the bed for a man. I love to hear the churn dasher splashing in the butter-milk. I love to hear the roosters crow and the peacock holler, and see the martins sailing around the martin gourds. I love to hear a neighbor stop and talk about the growing crops. I love to take the children with me to the water-mill and fish below the dam amid the roar of falling waters, or paddle around the pond in an old leaky bateau. I love to wander through the woods and glades, and wear old clothes that can't get older or dirtier, and get caught in a shower of rain if I want to. Old man Horace remarked about 2,000 years ago that the town was the best place for a rich man to live in, and the country was the best place for a poor man to die in, and inasmuch as riches were uncertain and death was sure it becomes a prudent man to move to the country as soon as he can get there. Farmers have their ups and downs, of course, but they don't collapse and burst up like tradesmen. They don't go down under a panic.

Gould's Wonderful Yacht.

From the Philadelphia Record.

Among the conveniences with which Mr Gould's yacht will be fitted will be a large and improved ice machine, capable of making a thousand pounds of ice daily. The machine was originally constructed for the United States man-of-war Tallapoosa. The yacht will also be provided with a patent distilling machine, which will daily convert 500 gallons of salt water into fresh. One hundred and fifty Edison electric lights, such are in use in the Record building, will illuminate the vessel. Thirty lights will be required in the engine room alone. The crew, which will number fifty men, will include the electrician.

The yacht will soon be ready for its trial trip. Carpenters and upholsters are now busily engaged in transforming the space below decks into palatial quarters. The finest of woods are being used in fitting up the rooms. The sleeping rooms will be supplied with buttonwood, sycamore, California laurel, white maple, Spanish cedar, and cherry; bath-room, white maple; dining-saloon, oak; and social hall, black walnut. The bulwarks will be capped with solid mahogany. The engines, which are of 1,400 horse power, were recently tried and found to work like a charm. One hundred revolutions a minute were made, and when the trial was over not a drop of water was found on its journals. Mr. Nelson D. Johnson, Jr., of this city has been selected chief engineer. The yacht is expected to make twenty knots an hour.

A Sensible Consul.

From the Paris Continental Gazette.

The following case is of peculiar interest to the consuls of the United States in Europe, and the action of the Wurtemberg Government has furnished a valuable precedent. A furniture dealer of Stuttgart, feeling himself aggrieved by a remark said to have been made by Mrs. Catlin, the wife of the United States Consul at that capital (but which she denied), demanded a written apology from Consul Catlin, and failing that, challenged him to fight a duel, naming pistols as his favorite weapon. Mr. Catlin declined to accept the invitation, declaring that he had been sent abroad by his Government to respect and uphold the laws of the country to which he had been accredited, and not to violate them by dueling. Thereupon the furniture dealer sent him a grossly insulting communication which the Consul forwarded to the Foreign Office of the Wurtemberg Government. The authorities at once caused the offender to be prosecuted, and he was brought up for trial, found guilty and sentenced to a fine of 80 marks and to pay the full costs of the proceedings.

SHE HATED A TUNNEL.

"I hate a tunnel!" the maiden said,
And closer to the drummer drew:
"They always make me feel afraid
Of some disaster; don't they you?"
And then the drummer shook his mane,
"You're safe enough with me," said he:
"Whatever happens to the train,
You always can rely on me."

And with ear-splitting whistle's shriek,
The train plunged in the black abyss:
The drummer sought her blooming cheek,
And frescoed it with manly kiss.
Emboldened by her sweet alarm,
As on they tore through that eclipse,
He laid her head upon his arm,
And friezed a dado on her lip.

"Ah, me!" the maiden sweetly smiled,
As she arranged her tumbled hat,
And once again the sunbeams filed
In at the window where they sat;
"I thank you for your interest.
Excuse me, sir; I get off here."

And so she left him drowned in sighs,
And on the sea of soft dreams tossed
Of her sweet lips and pure, bright eyes,
So quickly gained and quickly lost.
To dream! But, ah! at last to wake,
And learned that in the tunnel's din
She seized upon the chance to snake
His watch and chain and diamond pin.

Drake's Magazine.

THE PURPLE SCAR.

"The next time Gus Rybolt is brought before me for some of his numerous misdemeanors I will sentence him heavily."

And Judge Johnson stirred his tea vigorously, while a deep wrinkle grew between his fine iron-gray brows, under which glowed his keen, earnest eyes.

His little daughter Janie lingered to pour his second cup of tea. She was very fond of waiting on papa, for Janie, though only twelve years old, was the old judge's housekeeper, her mother having died two years previously.

"Who pays his fines, for you often speak of his arrests, papa?"

"His brother Warren, who is as fine a young man as the town contains. I cannot understand Gus. He's handsome, bright, and might be anything he choose. He'll end on the gallows yet."

"Oh, papa!"

"But reckless, wild Gus Rybolt was soon forgotten when the parlor was reached, and Janie sat down to the piano.

A servant entered an hour later and handed the judge a telegram.

"Uncle Rube is dying and has sent for me."

"Dying! Uncle Rube!"

"Yes; are you afraid to remain with the servants and Mrs. Smith? I feel uneasy owing to that money. I ought to have put it in the bank, but have been overcrowded with work and business. Too bad!" muttered the judge a trifle anxiously, glancing at his daughter dubiously.

"Oh, no, papa, I'm not afraid. Poor Uncle Rube! You had better start at once. Don't worry about me; Mrs. Smith sleeps in the next room, you remember?"

But the Judge did worry and fret, not only over the danger of his daughter and his money, but blamed himself severely for his carelessness.

Even among his graver fears for his brother the thought of thieves and burglars haunted him.

"I ought to be ashamed of myself to leave that amount of money in the house even for a day, for the place is so isolated, the servants such arrant cowards and Cousin Sallie such a weak help. Only Janie's brave little heart to be depended on. Heaven bless the child. Now, what can be the matter with Rube I cannot imagine; he was well enough last week."

Mrs. Sallie Smith, a forty-second cousin of the judge's and a confirmed invalid, occupied the room on the right of Janie's, while that on the left was her father's, and in it the iron safe that contained the money referred to.

"I am afraid I am a bit nervous," mused Janie, looking round the chamber with a shudder. "The servants are quite a way off, and Cousin Sallie takes so much laudanum that she would never waken. I wonder if I would feel safer with the money under my pillow?"

And foolish little Janie, having the combination of the safe, went to it, opened it, and took out the roll of bills.

"Oh, oh," said a soft voice behind her. "That is exactly what I want; I had no idea you would be so accommodating. Don't scream, on your life."

And the bold fellow actually laughed as he seized her wrist.

Janie did not cry out. She gave him one sudden, startled, indignant look, and, bending her head, buried her white, strong teeth in the exposed wrist of the hand that held her captive.

"You little tiger-cat," he cried, in a rage and intense suffering. "Let go, or I will kill you."

But while the sharp pain had unmanned him, with the other hand she thrust the roll of money into the safe and sprang the lock.

"Now," she said, triumphantly, "get it if you can, but--oh, Gus Rybolt, I know you."

"You--no, you don't--ah, well, you will tell your precious father before another day closes. Come, hand over the cash; I want to have some chance of getting away."

"No, you cannot have the money. Oh, Gus Rybolt, remember your sainted mother, your good brother; what will they think now? How can you be so wicked?"

"I have no time for nonsense. Hand over the cash, or I'll--" and the click of a revolver hammer sounded.

Janie's eyes flashed in scorn.

"You harm a helpless little girl! You, who always boasted of bravery. For shame, Gus Rybolt, you are a coward!" But in a gentler tone--"If you will make me a promise, I will also make you one, and keep mine as long as you do yours. If you will leave me now and become a better boy--an honest, honorable one--I will never tell."

The temptation to persist in his undertaking was great, but down in wicked, daredevil Gus Rybolt's heart there was a tender spot, which beautiful Janie Johnson had held ever since she was a mite of a child and he had taken care of her at school.

Harm her? He wouldn't have harmed a hair of her head to have saved his own life, and she knew it.

"You cannot have the money, but won't you accept the promise--won't you make the compact?"

"Yes," he said at last, in a husky, strained voice. "Heaven bless you, Janie Johnson, and may heaven bless me!" and he was gone.

And Janie, with eyes full of tears, slipped into bed, and after a long time fell soundly asleep.

But wasn't that old judge furious when he came home!

"An abominable practical joke," he fumed. "There was Rube well as I am, and very much surprised to see me. I know who did it."

"Why, papa," laughed Janie, "you ought to be thankful that Uncle Rube is well and not dying, as you thought. How can you feel provoked or angry? I am so glad it was not true."

The next morning Gus Rybolt had disappeared.

Ten years later Janie Johnson was a lovely, stately woman. The radiant promise of early girlhood was more than fulfilled, while the brave, tender heart was unchanged.

The wife of the Governor was receiving, and her rooms were filled with distinguished guests. The last comer was a young man of thirty, of commanding presence, whose grace and noble face made him appear somewhat older. After paying his respects to the hostess, he made his way slowly forward, and was met by many smile and greetings. He was evidently a great favorite in society.

"Oh, there is General Rybolt, who has refused the Austrian mission, papa says, because he has another and better mission among the poor of New York. You know him by reputation, dear; but very few know the half of the great and good things he is doing with his wealth and talents." The speaker was the Governor's daughter.

Janie Johnson turned her lovely hazel eyes carelessly toward the person pointed out--looked one instant coolly upon him, and her face underwent a sudden strange change.

"It is--yes, it must be Gus Rybolt! How marvelous are thy ways, O God!" she breathed.

Slowly, yet steadily, he found his way toward her.

Her face was no longer pale but flushed, and her upraised eyes showed pleased recognition.

His first words were: "I have kept my promise; have you kept yours?"

"Yes, oh, yes," she breathed, then added "Thank heaven!" to which he gave a low "Amen."

To say the old judge was astonished is putting it mildly; to find in the eminent reformer his old--as he supposed--incorrigible Gus Rybolt utterly nonplussed him. To an old friend he said confidentially:

"Yes, the boy has turned out a trump, and the wonder of it is Janie thinks so, too," he laughed.

And Janie never told of her robber, yet she kisses sometimes a purple scar on her husband's wrist.

"It was the beginning of the new life," she says, "the beautiful new life of an honest man."

₊ "Example is better than precept." It is well known that dyspepsia, bilious attacks, headache and many other ills can only be cured by removing their cause. Kidney-Wort has been proved to be the most effectual remedy for these, and for habitual costiveness, which so afflicts millions of the American people.

A LAKESIDE MUSING.

How a Giddy Girl Lost Her Devoted Lover.

From the Chicago Tribune.

"You are too tart."

A ghastly, pie-crust pallor that is in strange contrast to the ruddy flush of his new necktie passes swiftly over George W. Simpson's face as Beryl McCloskey speaks these words, and as they stand there together in the dim half-light of the conservatory, the soft perfume of the June roses coming through the open window on the sighing breeze that is kissing the saw-buck whose haggard form is sharply outlined against the woodshed, he feels instinctively that this woman--the only woman he has ever loved, and to win a smile from whom he would brave the horrors of Inferno or go to St. Louis in July--has been making a toy of his affection. The thought is a maddening one, and as it surges through his brain and starts on the return trip almost without a pause, the agony is so overpowering that the strong man reels, and would have fallen had not his pants been too tight.

"Do you know what you have said, Beryl?" he asks, bending his face close to hers and looking with a pitiful, pleading, man-on-third-base-and-two-out expression into the beautiful brown eyes that are upturned to his. But there is no light of love in those dusky orbs; no warm, responsive, you-may-hold-me-a-little-while-when-we-get-home-from-the-concert gleam. Around the drooping mouth there are hard, tense lines, and on the white brow, that is fair as the cyclamen leaves scattered over the lawn of Brierton Villa, there comes no rosy flush--sweet messenger of love and trustfulness--nothing but the faint, perfumy odor of home-made bandoline. And as she does not answer him, but stands defiantly, only the irregular cracking of her liver-pad telling of the emotion that Beryl feels, he turns away, steps through the open window upon the veranda, and an instant later is lost to view.

"My God!" exclaims the girl, sobbing as if she had mislaid her shoe-buttoner on matinee day, "I have driven him away!" and hastily pushing aside the honeysuckles that cluster around the window she goes hastily out into the purple twilight that hangs like a mantle over the earth and calls to him.

There is a little stir among the lilacs and syringas, and an instant later George has clasped her to his suspender.

"And you do love me, after all?" he asks. She laughs softly, as if bewildered by her sudden happiness, and then her eyes fill with tears as she softly strokes his face.

"Yes, darling," is the answer, "and you must come to supper now. We are to have hot biscuits. I made them myself."

"You made them?"

"Yes," she whispers, "made them all by myself."

"Then," he says coldly, "you cannot love me," and starts for the gate. The girl follows him and cries in a low, despairing wail for him to come back. But he does not heed her. On and on he goes, when suddenly she sees him throw up his arms, as the drowning man does when battling with the very air for existence, and disappear forever.

He had stepped into a post-hole.

A SEASON OF SILKS.

Gay Colors and Rich Fabrics--A Bride's Basket--Pretty Novelties.

Culled from Various Papers.

It is a silken season, a season of magnificent fabrics, of much lace, of bewildering masses and of variety of color. Yet out of the whole range the finest effects are produced by the use of single colors illuminated by dashes of dull red or pale yellow, or by the combination of black with white or white with yellow. Black was a uniform for so long that it is rather curious to see it combined with the art reds or a dull shade of yellow, and to see how vivid an effect is produced by a lining, a group of feathers, or even a branch of roses, upon a black costume. The value of yellow in bringing out other colors is beginning to be well understood; nothing prettier can be imagined for a spring costume than an electric blue surah with glimpses of gold in the lining and a bunch of buttercups in the belt. Solid colors, it may be remarked, are preferred on the richest materials for short dresses or costumes. Figures are disappearing from secondary toilets and are only admissable in cottons or the costly brocades used in combination with satin or lace. These grand fabrics are growing more elegant every day; but there is one good side to this fact, and that is, that the costlier, more artistic, more individualized they become, the longer they are kept, the more service they are made to perform. A dress the train of which costs from $30 to $50 per yard, and which cannot be duplicated, will not be thrown aside. It is the flimsy stuffs which are forever multiplied yet never adequate to any office.

A lovely young brida wore at the belt of her wedding dress of cream satin a dainty half-basket made of pearls and lace over a foundation of gold wire. The basket was filled with orange-blossoms, white lilacs and primroses, with garlands of delicate vines and small white tiny blossoms falling over her dress from the edges of the basket.

A pretty novelty consists in tinted satin gilets or waistcoats, embroidered in sprays of arbutus, lilies of the valley, or other fine flowers, or worked all over with white silk rosebuds, outlined with tiny mother-of-pearl beads. These pretty vests can be worn with different toilets.

The most fashionable stockings are of black, strawberry or primrose, silk or lisle, in monochrome, stripes and checks being only second in popularity.

White Danish kid gloves, decorated with lilies of the valley, are worn by bridesmaids.

Chicken-down yellow is announced as a later tint of that shade than primrose.

HAIR CUTTING.

How Close Cropping Injures the Life of the Hair.

Dr. Shoemaker.

It may be that cutting and shaving may for the time increase the action of the growth, but it has no permanent effect either upon the hair-bulb or the hair-sac, and will not in any way add to the life of the hair. On the contrary, cutting and shaving will cause the hair to grow longer for the time being, but in the end will inevitable shorten its term of life by exhausting the nutrive action of the hair-forming apparatus. When the hairs are frequently cut, they will usually become coarser, often losing the beautiful gloss of the fine and delicate hairs. The pigment will likewise change--brown, for instance, becoming chestnut, and black changing to a dark brown. In addition, the ends of very many will be split and ragged, presenting a brush-like appearance. If the hairs appears tunted in their growth upon portions of the scalp or beard, or gray hairs crop up here and there, the method of clipping off the ends of the short hairs, of plucking out the ragged, withered, and gray hairs, will allow them to grow stronger, longer, and thicker. Mothers, in rearing their children, should not cut their hair at certain periods of the year (during the superstitious period of full moon), in order to increase its length and luxuriance as they bloom into womanhood and manhood. This habit of cutting the hair of children brings evil in place of good, and is also condemned by the distinguished worker in this department, Prof. Kaposi, of Vienna, who states that it is well known that the hair of women who possess luxuriant locks from the time of girlhood never again attains its original length after having once been cut. Pincus has made the same observation by frequent experiment, and he adds that there is a general opinion that frequent cutting of the hair increases its length; but the effect is different from that generally supposed. Thus, upon one occasion he stated that he cut off circles of hair an inch in diameter on the heads of healthy men, and from week to week compared the intensity of growth of the shorn place with the rest of the hair. The result was surprising to this close and careful observer, as he found in some cases the numbers were equal, but generally the growth became slower after cutting, and he never observed an increase in rapidity. I might also add that I believe many beardless faces and bald heads in middle and advancing age are often due to constant cutting and shaving in early life. The young girls and boys seen daily upon our streets with their closely-cropped heads and the young men with their clean-shaven faces are year by year by this fashion having their hair-forming apparatus strained.

Two-Horse Load of Tooth-Picks.

From the Boston Commonwealth.

Where do the tooth-picks come from? A Maine newspaper states that the little town of Sebec, at the outlet of Sebec Lake, Piscataquis county, in the interior, has one of the best water-powers in the State, but has never been fully developed. A tooth-pick factory there is doing a large business, using over a thousand cords of poplar and birch wood annually, turning out a two-horse load of tooth-picks daily, and employing from twelve to fifteen girls and eight or ten men. A private letter from the place states what the newspaper omitted, that "the tooth-pick mill gives employment to as many girls as can afford to pack a hundred boxes for 25 cents, and feed themselves." This seems very small wages for women, but board is cheaper there than in Boston, and probably many of them board at home, and would be unable to earn as much otherwise. The little stream was dammed and utilized for a fulling mill, grist mill and saw mill sixty years ago; later for a shingle and clapboard mill, and more than forty years ago a woolen cloth manufactory was erected there, which within the past year has proved a failure, the company offering 15 per cent to the creditors.

Colors Made by the Voice.

From the Philadelphia Press.

An optical demonstration of the effect of sound on the colors and figures in soap bubbles was given at the Franklin Institute May 30, by Prof. Holeman. A film of soap was placed across the end of a phoneidoscope. To bring the sound in direct contact with the soap a tube was used. A reflection of the film was thrown on a canvas screen, where it first assumed a blueish-gray appearance. An intonation of the voice, with lips close to the mouth of the tube, caused a number of black spots to appear on the reflection. When these passed away a beautiful light green, intermingled with pink, remained. These two appeared to be the principal colors caused by sound. It was noticeable, however, that while a certain tone would cause the same figure to reappear, it had no control over the color. A tone which, for instance, caused one solid color to appear, would bring out, perhaps, a dark blue at one time and a yellow at another. No difference was noticeable in the effect of the male and female voices.

BANEFUL BLONDINE.

A Fashionable Hair-Wash Which Wrecks Both Mind and Body.

Tortures Undergone by Those Who Bleach Their Hair—Golden Tresses and Nights of Agony—A Medical Gentleman's Testimony on the Subject.

"What's the reason shingling the hair has become so fashionable with ladies of late?" a POST-DISPATCH reporter asked of a Fifth street barber and hair-dresser yesterday. The tonsorial artist smiled knowingly, shook his head and said that no professional secret should ever be divulged, while one which involved the fair sex was more than ever inviolable. Strategy was the only recourse, and so the reporter stretched himself in the chair for a shave, complimented the barber upon the lightness and delicacy of his touch five times during the operation, had his hair cut, indulged in a shampoo, with sea-foam and other extras, bought a dozen Turkish bath tickets and half a dozen bottles of the professor's famous "Haironicon," and then, as he received the change for the $20 he had handed over, he again broached the delicate subject, this time with better effect. The professor, mollified by the joint application of profit and flattery, invited the reporter into the back room, and there he made his astonishing revelation:

"Blondine is at the bottom of it," he said, in the most careful of whispers, glancing somewhat apprehensively at two lady customers who had just entered the store.

"And what may blondine be?" asked the reporter.

"Blondine is a preparation," said the artist taking from a shelf and exhibiting a small blue-glass bottle filled with colorless liquid, "greatly in vogue among those ladies whom nature has declined to endow with hair of the popular pale shade. Its name tells what it is. It makes blondes out of those who are not blondes. Harmless? I should say so; it's clear as water."

"So is sulphuric acid."

"But blondine ain't drunk. It's applied to the hair, whose shade it invariably converts to that beautiful golden tint which has been so fashionable of late years."

"But such a change must produce unnatural combinations of color. In nature it is well known, whether working on a face, or a flower, or a tree, or a landscape, combines her tints in harmony. When nature gives a woman a pair of jet black eyes, she colors the hair to correspond. Nature, who can not err—"

"Excuse me; nature has nothing to do with it. Fashion settles these matters, and when she decides in favor of blonde hair the brunettes have to fall in line, and the only hope for them lies in blondine."

"When did the fashion for blonde hair set in?"

"Over ten years ago, and for many years the desire to be in the fashion led ladies into great extravagances. Bathing the hair in was a common practice with those who could afford it, and it generally cost about $150 before the desired result was accomplished. Chemical inventors then set to work and the result was the discovery in France of a liquid, one application of which produced the change. At first this was imported, and sold readily at $10 a bottle. The price fell and kept on falling until $3 or $4 was the cost, and blondined hair became quite common, and now it is manufactured in this city, and people who know where to go can buy it, when providing their own bottles, for fifty cents an ounce."

SUCCESSIVE BATHS OF CHAMPAGNE

"How is it applied?"

"Simply as can be. Of course at first hairdressers claimed that great care was required in its application, but ladies were not slow to learn that with a little care they could use it with safety, and a very profitable branch of business showed signs of decay in a year or so."

"But what has all this got to do with the shingling of ladies' hair?"

"Everything. Between you and me this blondine plays the mischief with the hair. It kills it dead. I don't mind telling you that now, that the druggist is getting about all the profit out of its sale. And I have heard lately of one or two cases of sickness said to have been caused by its use, though none of my customers have ever suffered in that way. It has taken the ladies a long time to find this out, but they seem to know it at last, and a very large majority of the saucy, shingled heads that you see belong to ladies whose hair or health has been affected by blondine. These are, in many cases, ladies of fashionable society, and their example has been followed by others who have never used the stuff. Anyhow, the fate of blondine is sealed. Light hair is not so fashionable as it was, and its artificial production is now mainly carried on by ladies of the demi-monde."

At a druggist's establishment on Washington avenue the reporter learned that the chemical used in the manufacture of blondine is peroxide of hydrogen, which is imported from England. The chemist supplying the information stated that absolutely no danger to health arose from using the wash, but that its action upon the hair was most deleterious. "It virtually destroys its vitality," he said; "the pale color it assumes being obtained at the price of all the life-giving liquids which flow into the hair. There are other washes which produce the same effect as blondine, only more gradually. Any of the alkalies, as, for instance, carbonate of soda, salts of tartar, or ammonia, will turn the hair to which some ladies prefer to the bright golden hue produced by the blondine."

"How much does it sell for?"

"Three dollars for a four-ounce bottle. Some dealers sell it cheaper, but then the cheapest is not always the safest."

"Then there is some dangerous blondine?"

"That which we sell is perfectly innocuous, except as far as its action upon the hair is concerned."

Not having within his acquaintance a lady in society, whose tresses have barrowed sunlight from the blondine bottle, the reporter called upon a lady out of society who readily told what she knew about it. Her hair was cut close to her head, which gave her really handsome classical features the rather masculine expression which belongs to the lady whose hair has been banged all round.

"It was," she said, "the society ladies who first began to bleach their hair. Indeed, you may not believe it, but all those feminine follies are introduced by them; we are only the imitators in such matters. It used to cost us $100 at first to have it done, but it got cheaper as soon as the blondine came in. You can buy it now for $1 a two-ounce bottle, and about three bottles will bleach the hair, but I don't want any more of it. I used it for two years and I'm certain that if I hadn't had my hair cropped last week, I'd be in a lunatic asylum to-day."

"What were the symtoms?"

"Loss of memory at first, which increased rapidly; then headache, which became unendurable. Finally I went to the doctor, who found that my system was thoroughly poisoned. Then I called in the barber, and you see what he did," said the lady, passing her hand over her cropped skull.

"Who used to apply the blondine?"

"Those who bleached their hair applied it themselves of late. There used to be a colored woman named Mary Young, who did an immense business at one time bleaching hair. She used to charge one dollar an application, and she had about sixty customers, whose hair she touched up every week. She was making a fortune fast, but one day she took suddenly sick and died. The blondine killed her."

"Do you know of any other cases of injury from its use?"

"I don't know of anyone using it who was not injured. I know a half a dozen whose health was permanently ruined, and of one girl who was driven crazy by it. We're all of us shutting down on blondine, and if we have got to have blonde hair we're just going to get shaved and wear wigs."

The next place visited was the office of Dr Joseph H. Moore, at No. 2330 Olive street. Said the Doctor:

"Most decidedly I do know something about the effects of blondine, which is, perhaps, the most pernicious article that is employed by ladies in self-adornment. I will just mention two cases which came under my own observation. One of these was that of a young married lady whom I attended personally. She was suffering from and back of the neck, which, she said, began shortly after she had commenced to use blondine, and grew until they became so excruciating that her mind was threatened. Her description of the pain was that it seemed as though successive strokes of lightning passed through her skull, entering deep into the brain and passing down the cervical column. The only relief she could obtain was by pressing her hands simultaneously against the top of her head and the back of her neck. I ordered her to refrain from further use of the blondine and since then she has improved, but the effects of the poisoning are still at times seriously felt. The strength of a liquid which can destroy the life and color of the hair in a single application can easily be imagined, and its absorption by the skin led to a derangement of the nerve centers of a most dangerous nature. The pain endured by the patient was of a purely neuralgic nature, which showed that the nerves were affected. The other case was that of a demi-mondaine who had gone through all the agony I have already described, and, reaching a stage of the disease where physical and mental endurance ends, had become a raving maniac. She was taken to the Lunatic Asylum, where, I believe, after remaining some six months, she improved sufficiently to permit of her removal. I have learned since, however, that her health is permanently shattered. These are the only cases of which I have personal knowledge, but I have been credibly informed of several others, among them that of a well-known lady, who lost one of her eyes through using the blondine. Other less severe results of its use have been brought to my attention, and I have no hesitation in denouncing the blondine as a most dangerous agent, the employment of which cannot fail to prove detrimental to health; while its continued application may result in lunacy or death."

CITY NEWS.

The Y. M. C. A. monthly entertainment course closed for the season last evening. There was a good attendance.

Pursuant to Judge Adams' order a few days since the creditors of the Life Association will receive a second dividend of 5.74 per cent forthwith. There are about 6,500 policy claimants.

The Republican members of the City Council, bent upon harmonizing the existing differences, held a secret meeting at the Lindell last night. The Solid Seven propose to stick, however.

The Catholic clergy and laity met at St. John's Library last evening to make arrangements for the annual picnic at the Fair Grounds, July 4, for the benefit of the orphans. The chief parishes will be represented with tables and booths. Committees were appointed on amusements, collections from business men, etc.

The Southern Historical and Benevolent Society met at the rooms, 710 Chestnut street, last evening to receive the battle-flag of Guibor's battery, commanded by Henry Guibor, of St. Louis. Celsus Price exhibited the sword worn by his father, General Sterling Price.

Merchants, manufacturers and business men are invited to a meeting of the Mercantile Club to-night to discuss a new feature for Fair Week in the form of an industrial and military procession for Thursday evening. It is proposed to make it a representative display, set off with grotesque features, including the tally-ho coach mounted with dudes.

The Citizens' Committee last night elected Chas. Irwin, ex-recorder, for chairman for the ensuing year, and Thos. J. Hanley for secretary. A resolution was adopted condemning the House of Delegates for passage of the Union Depot Street Railroad Company's ordinance, which omits compensation to the city, although the charter extends over fifty years. The ordinance likewise establishes the third parallel line monopoly.

The People in St. Louis who Dabble in Stocks.

The Kind of Purchases That are Made in This Market—Local Stocks and How They Sell—A Change for the Better in the Market.

"Yes, stocks are very dull," said a well-known banker to a POST-DISPATCH reporter to-day. "Very dull, indeed. Yesterday was the first strong day we have had in six months. Things begin to look up. To-day the boom seems to be continuing."

"Is St. Louis what you would call a speculating center?"

"In stocks, do you mean?"

"Yes."

"No, not to any great extent. A good deal of business is done here, of course, in railroad and other stocks. In fact, the same stocks that are dealt in in New York are all handled here. But the purchases are generally not of a speculative nature. St. Louisans buy stocks largely for investment. People buy them here, pay for them outright, and hold them, just as they do real estate, for the dividends they pay."

"When did the present dullness in stocks set in?"

"Ever since the death of Garfield; everything dropped, and has remained down ever since. I don't mean to say that the assassination had anything to do with it, but I use that as a term to mark the beginning of the decline."

"What particular class of stocks have felt the downward tendency most?"

"All the Gould stocks, without exception. Perhaps the Wabash more than any other. You see, most of them have not paid any dividend for quite a while. Missouri Pacific has, and so has Western Union, you know. But Wabash has not, neither has Texas Pacific, nor Kansas and Texas."

"What have been the causes of the decline?"

"Nobody knows. You can guess at that as well as I can. They were run up too high, of course, at first, and the men who shoved them up could not keep them there. People began to be afraid and would not buy. There was so much talk in and out of the newspapers about what Gould was going to do, and what Vanderbilt would do in that event, and what Keene was likely to do in the meantime, that purchasers grew wary, and confidence has not been restored since. I see stories in the papers about New York brokers having so little to do that they put in considerable time

PLAYING CHESS.

It has never reached that stage here, but we had times, to do many things without being rushed to death by business."

"So St. Louis has never been a great speculating point?"

"No, not to any extent."

"How about local stocks?"

"Just as I told you. They are bought almost altogether for purposes of investment. Little speculation has ever been done in any local stock save St. Louis gas-light, and possibly Laclede stock. Take the street railroad stock, for instance. It is not at all of a speculative nature."

"It is on the market all the time?"

"Yes, some of it, but people buy it like they do a house and lot, because it pays a good interest on their money. The same is the case with bank and insurance stocks."

"Can you give me some idea of the fall within the time you have mentioned?"

"Yes, easily. Here is Texas Pacific. The highest prices it reached in 1881, was 73⅝, and the lowest 41½. In 1882, the highest figures were 55 and the lowest 34. This year up to June 1, the highest price was 43, on January 18, and the lowest 34½ on May 18. Wabash common ran as high as 60, and as low as 33 in 1881. In 1882, the highest was 39⅞, and the lowest 25⅝. In 1883, up to June 1, the figures have been 36¼ and 25½. Wabash preferred was up to 96 and down to 64 in 1881. In 1882 the range was 71⅝ and 45⅛. This year it was 57½ and 40½."

"These have been very fluctuating. Do the staple stocks show such great variations?"

"Let us see. Illinois Central is one of the staple stocks of the country and is as steady as any could be. In 1881, in was worth at one time 146½, and it fell as low as 124. In 1882, the highest figures for the same stock were 156½, and the lowest 127¾. In 1883, the highest has been 147⅞, and the lowest 141⅝. Missouri Pacific was worth from 114½ to 85 in 1881. In 1882, it was worth 11⅛ to 86⅝. This year the range has been from 106⅞ to 97¾. All the Eastern stocks will show a similar decline, so that it is not necessary to quote them more fully.

THE BOTTOM DROPPED OUT OF THINGS GENERALLY

more than a year ago, and the chances have not shown much indication of selling them until yesterday and to-day. It is too early to say much about the permanency or reliability of the present boom, but it looks as if it had come to stay."

"What class of people deal in stocks in St. Louis?"

"Why everybody who has money. Very careful people still buy Government bonds yet, because they are dead safe. But a great many of the wealthy ladies and gentlemen of St. Louis think that clipping coupons is a pretty safe thing and they do it. It is a good investment for ready money, without all this trouble of examing titles and all that kind of think. But there is little or no speculation like that done on the Stock Exchange in New York. The speculators here all buy corn, wheat and cotton, and mess pork. Stocks are not dabbled in in that way to any extent worth mentioning."

Children's Day.

Who can describe the Rare Beauty or measure the ECSTATIC JOY of the "CHILDREN'S DAY PROCESSION?" In FANCY we may see the youth and children coming together next Sunday from over the Steep mountains and down the flowery valleys in "Rosy June," all throuth our grand and glorious Republic? Boys and girls—in innocent and happy childhood—from the "rock-bound coast" of virtuous New England to the golden shores of California, and from the clear waters of Minnesota to wonderful Texas, will bring sweet and beautiful flowers to perfume the air and adorn their Churches and Sunday-School rooms. They will read together and sing sweet songs, in which the merry birds will join. Many of the thoughtful little ones will, no doubt, take the bouquets which have delighted them and their friends as presents to some sick, aged or kind and gentle person, who could not be with them on their joyous occasion. HAPPY CHILDREN!—may THEIR DAY be indeed one of the HAPPIEST of ALL the year. HOT WEATHER is here in REAL EARNEST, as many a tired mother well knows, and if your restless Boy is unprovided with SUMMER CLOTHES don't neglect to make him comfortable—before next SUNDAY. Wish we could place before EVERY MOTHER of a Boy a sample garment of some of the MANY LOVELY COSTUMES we have prepared for Children. It has been our study to provide both the useful and the beautiful things for Little Boys. IN KILT SUITS we rarely fail to please, for our varied display contains SO MANY EXQUISITE GEMS that the little fellows not infrequently shout right out: "GOLLY! ain't that a daisy!!" $1 50 buys a very pretty Linen Kilt Suit. From $1 50 to $3 50 we have many handsome styles in Linen, both in one and two pieces. In WHITE PIQUE our showing is very rich and artistic, both in one and two pieces. Prices from $3 50 to $6 50. Our assortment of WOOLEN KILTS, LIGHT-WEIGHT, is very attractive, both in price and style—light, dark and medium colors—in fact, most any hue, shade or mixture may be found in our carefully selected stock. Prices from $2 50 upward. The SHAPES of our Kilt Suits, like those of our SCHOOL, PLAY and Dress Suits, are EXQUISITELY SYMMETRICAL, and OUR OWN EXCLUSIVE STYLES. We are content that YOU shall decide, after looking elsewhere, whether or not there is a Money Advantage in buying from HEADQUARTERS. Your BOYS' SHIRT WAISTS are an item of great moment JUST NOW—especially if you have SEVERAL Boys. Don't imagine you are getting a BARGAIN elsewhere when you pay 90c for the same Waist we sell at 75c. That we are HONEST in our desire to serve you efficiently, our readiness to TAKE BACK goods and REFUND money is the BEST TEST. Open until 10 p. m. on Saturday.

Administrators' Notices.

INFORMATION wanted of the whereabouts of Charles W. Noell.—Charles W. Noell, son of John W. and Mary A. Noell, was born at Louisiana, Pike county, Mo., April 30, 1837. He was reared up from early infancy in Perry county, Mo. In the latter part of the summer of 1865 he left his home in Perry county to enlist in the United States army, since which time his family have never seen him, but in former years frequently heard from him by letter. In February, 1877, he was stationed at Omaha Barracks, Nebraska, under the command of General Crook. At the time of his departure, in 1865, he was of robust figure, weighed about 160 pounds, was about 5 feet 9 inches high, was slightly round-shouldered, had jet black curly hair, light blue eyes, his complexion, which had been medium fair, was somewhat darkened, and his face and body slightly pitted by small-pox, with which he had suffered during the earlier part of the same summer. I have in my hands belonging to said Noell, if alive, and if not, to his legal heirs, the sum of seven hundred and forty-two dollars and fifty cents ($742 50), being amount due him at a final settlement of his mother, Mary Ann Noell's, estate, filed April 17, 1883, in the Probate Court, City of St. Louis, and if this money is not claimed by June, 1883, it will be paid into the Treasury of the State of Missouri. He has also one undivided third interest in certain real estate. For further information apply to Sheriff's Sales.

SHERIFF'S SALE UNDER DEED OF TRUST—Whereas, Henry M. Blakeslee and Ann J. Blakeslee his wife, by their deed dated the 8th of June, A. D., 1868, and recorded in the Recorder's office of St. Louis county (now city), in book 368, page 90, conveyed to Frank Desloge in trust the following described real estate, situated, lying and being in the city of St. Louis, State of Missouri, and described as follows, to-wit:

Lot numbered nine (9) in James Miner's sub-division, platted and recorded in platt book number seven (7), on page number seventy-five (75), in the office of Recorder of Deeds for St. Louis county (now city). Said lot has a front of twenty-five feet on proposed Ninth street, and a depth on the north side of one hundred and thirty-eight feet and eleven inches (138' 11"), and on the south side of one hundred and thirty-eight feet and ten and three-eighths inches (138' 10⅜") to a ten-foot alley, and is the same piece of ground conveyed to the party of the first part hereto by James Minor and others, by their deed of even date herewith; which said conveyance was made in trust to secure the payment of three certain promissory notes in said deed described. And whereas all of the said notes remain due and unpaid, and the said Frank Desloge, said trustee, having declined to act, and the Sheriff of the County of St. Louis having declined to act in lieu and place of the original trustee, and the Circuit Court of the City of St. Louis having made an order on the 18th day of May, 1883, appointing the Sheriff of the City of St. Louis, trustee, to execute said deed of trust in lieu and place of the original trustee. Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that, at the request of the legal holder of said notes, and by virtue of the said order of court, and in pursuance of the provisions of said deed of trust, the undersigned will, on between the hours of nine o'clock in the forenoon and three o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the east front door of the Court-house in the city of St. Louis, State of Missouri, proceed to sell at public vendue, to the highest bidder, for cash, the above described real estate to satisfy said notes and the costs of executing said trust.

Robinson and wife to Jane Finney by deed dated October 1, [illegible] and recorded in book 3[illegible], page 215, in Recorder's office of the now city of St. Louis, described as follows: Beginning at a point where the Big Bend Road intersects the Laclede Road, in lot No. 2 of [illegible] Mackenzie's tract United States survey 1953, recorded in Plat book No. 1 page 50, October 29, 1850, thence along the center of Big Bend Road south 38° 30' [illegible] 23 chains 84 links to a point in the center of said [illegible] thence east 13 chains 95 links to a point in the [illegible] of Laclede road, thence north 19 chains 37 [illegible] along the line of Laclede Road to the point of beginning, containing thirteen (13) acres more or less, [illegible] lines of the original subdivision of the Mackenzie tract having been run magnetic, not the true course, and the tract being part of lots two and three (2 and 3) in said tract, which conveyance was made in trust to secure the payment of the notes in said deed described. And, whereas, default has been made in payment of two of the interest notes described in said deed; therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of said deed and by the authority thereby vested in me at the request of the holder of said notes, I will, on between the hours of 10 o'clock in the forenoon and [illegible] o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the east front door of the Court-house in the City of St. Louis, State of Missouri, proceed to sell said property at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash, for the purposes of said trust.

MONDAY, THE 11TH DAY OF JUNE, 1883,

ROBERT RUTLEDGE, Trustee.

TRUSTEE'S SALE.—Whereas John Finke[illegible] (now more than nine months deceased) and Anna E., his wife, by their deed of trust dated [illegible] day of May, A. D. 1875, and recorded in the Recorder's office of the city of St. Louis, Mo., in book 518, page 435, conveyed to the undersigned the following described real estate situated in the city of St. Louis, Mo., to-wit: The south half of lot number sixty-nine (69) and the north half of lot number seventy (70) West Union addition, city block No. 1898, having a front of twenty-five feet (25') on the western line of Baldwin street by a depth of one hundred and twenty-seven feet six inches (127' 6") to an alley fifteen feet wide; which said conveyance to the undersigned was made in trust to secure the payment of certain notes in said deed of trust described; and whereas all of said notes have become due and remain unpaid; now, therefore, at the request of the legal holder of said notes, and in pursuance of the conditions in said deed of trust, the undersigned will, on between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 5 o'clock p. m. of said day, at the east front door of the Court-house, in said city of St. Louis, Mo., sell the above described real estate, at public vendue, to the highest bidder, for cash, for the purposes of satisfying said notes and the cost of executing this trust.

MONDAY, THE 18TH DAY OF JUNE, A. D., 1883,

20N AUGUST GEHNER, Trustee.

TRUSTEE'S SALE.—Whereas, N. Grattan Murphy and Eliza W., his wife, and George W. Murphy and Margaret W., his wife, by their deed dated September 12th, 1870, and recorded on page 254 of book 443 of the records of the Recorder Deeds, for the city (formerly county) of St. Louis, (to which reference is here made for greater certainty of description) conveyed to a trustee the following described real estate, situated in the county of St. Louis, Missouri, to-wit: All those certain lots of ground marked and numbered respectively as lots Nos. 1, 2 and 3 (on plat) of subdivision made by C. E. Solomon, in Bonhomme township, said county, and more particularly known and described as United States survey No. 882, confirmed to the legal representatives of John Cummins, containing (formerly) 640 acres, and being the same acquired by Andrew Murphy by deed of David [illegible] ton, dated September 1, 1818, recorded in said St. Louis county, in book H. page 89. Plat of survey was made and subdivided by C. E. Solomon, County Surveyor, which said plat is on record with deed dated November 30, 1859, of partition, to George W. Murphy, recorded at page [illegible] in book 278, said office, whereby there was conveyed to said George W. Murphy lot No. 3, containing 94 44-100 acres.

And by deed of partition dated November 30, [illegible] between the heirs of Andrew Murphy, deceased, recorded at page 56, of book 280, in said Recorder's office, and by deed from James S. Murphy and wife to N. Grattan Murphy, dated September 26, 1867, recorded in said Recorder's office, at page 35, book 350. Said N. Grattan Murphy acquired lots Nos. one (1) and two (2) containing each 94 44-1000 acres, and in the aggregate 188 88-100 acres, said lots one (1) and two (2) three (3) containing in all 283 32-100 acres, in trust to secure the payment of certain notes specified in said deed; and, whereas, said trustee has refused to serve, and the Circuit Court of the County of St. Louis has, in pursuance of the provisions of said deed of trust, appointed the undersigned in the place instead of said trustee to execute said deed of trust; now, in pursuance of said deed of trust contained, and of the order of said court, the undersigned will, on at the eastern front door of the Court-house, in the city of St. Louis, offer said property for sale to the highest bidder, for cash, for the purposes provided for in said deed of trust.

MONDAY, THE 20TH DAY OF AUGUST, 1883,

ROBERT SCHNECKO, Sheriff of St. Louis County, and, by appointment, Trustee. 45J

TRUSTEE'S SALE—Whereas, Alice Barnes, by her deed of trust dated June 23d, 1881, and recorded in book "E" at pages 327 to 331 of the Recorder's office of the county of Cole, in the State of Missouri, conveyed to the undersigned trustee the following described real estate situated in the county of Cole, in the State of Missouri, to-wit:

Lots four (4) and five (5) of the subdivision of [illegible] lots in the city of Jefferson, numbered on the plat of said city as out lots fifteen (15) and sixteen (16) [illegible] Little & Key's addition to said city; also lots one (1), two (2) and three (3) of said Little & Key's subdivision [illegible] addition to said city of Jefferson in the State of Missouri; which conveyance was made in trust to secure the payment of the note in said deed described; and whereas default has been made in the payment of said note and the same has not been paid, although past due, now, therefore, in pursuance of the terms of said deed and at the request of the legal holder of said note, I will, on between the hours of ten o'clock in the forenoon and four o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the east front door of the Court-house in the city of St. Louis, State of Missouri, sell at public vendue, for cash, to the highest bidder, the above described real estate for the purposes of said trust.

99L WILLIAM ANDRE, Trustee.

TRUSTEE'S SALE—Whereas, Mary E. Tanner, by her deed of trust dated July 10, 1882, and recorded June 6, 1883, in the Recorder's Office of St. Louis, Mo., conveyed to the undersigned the following described real estate, situated in the city of St. Louis, State of Missouri, to-wit: A lot of ground in city block [illegible] hundred and thirty-two (132) of said city, with the improvements thereon, fronting fifty feet five inches (50'5") on the south line of Market street, with a depth south to a public alley of one hundred and thirty-eight (138) feet, more or less, bounded north by Market street, east by real estate now, or formerly owned by the Commercial Insurance Company, south by a public alley, and west by Blanchard [illegible] said lot being occupied by houses numbered [illegible] and 616 Market street, St. Louis, which said conveyance was made in trust to secure the payment of certain promissory notes in said deed described, and whereas said notes are now past due and unpaid, now, therefore, at the request of the legal holders of said notes, and in pursuance of the terms of said deed of trust, I will, on between the hours of ten o'clock a. m., and [illegible] o'clock p. m. of that day, at the east door of the Court-House in said city, sell the above described real estate at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash, for the purposes of said trust.

TUESDAY, THE 12TH DAY OF JUNE, 1883,

15N JOHN C. MORRIS, Trustee.

TRUSTEE'S SALE.—Default having been made in the payment of certain notes, secured by a deed of trust executed by James R. Elliott and Lydia M., his wife, dated August 14th, 1878, and recorded in book 593 page 516, in the Recorder's office of the City of Saint Louis, State of Missouri, in pursuance of the powers therein vested in me, and at the request of the legal holders of said notes, I will on Thursday, June 21st, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., at the east front door of the Court-house in the City of Saint Louis, Missouri, sell to the highest bidder, for cash, all the right, title and interest of said James R. Elliott and Lydia M., his wife, and their assigns, in and to a certain leasehold on the following described lots of ground, to-wit: Lots No. [illegible] 1216, 1216½ in block 557 of the said city of St. Louis, running 39 feet 9 inches on the east side of Seventh street, by 125 feet deep, with the improvements thereon, and rents and profits therefrom, being the same property leased by Thomas O'Connor of [illegible] S. Hearney, and others, and more fully described in said deed of trust.

58L C. BENT CARR, Trustee.

TRUSTEE'S SALE.—Whereas, Oliver P. Saylor and Mary Louise Saylor, his wife, by their deed dated January the twenty-fifth, eighteen hundred and seventy-three, and recorded in the Recorder's office of the then county (now city) of St. Louis, in book [illegible] page 348, conveyed to Frederick S. Behrens the following described lot or parcel of ground situated and lying in the city (and then county) of St. Louis, State of Missouri, to-wit: Beginning at a point in the east line of Prairie avenue two hundred and forty-two (242) feet eleven (11) inches north of the north line of Parsons street, thence northwardly along the east line of Prairie avenue one hundred and ten (110) feet eleven (11) inches; thence eastwardly and parallel to Parsons street five hundred and thirty-three (533) feet more or less, to the west line of Spring avenue; thence southwardly along the west line of Spring avenue one hundred and ten (110) feet eleven (11) inches; thence westwardly and parallel to Parsons street five hundred and thirty-three (533) feet more or less, to the place of beginning, and being the same tract of land conveyed by deed recorded in book 423, page 68, and book 464, page 382, of the St. Louis county (now city) records, which conveyance was made in trust to secure the payment of seven certain negotiable promissory notes therein described, [illegible] of said notes being for the principal sum of six thousand dollars, payable three years after the date thereof, and whereas said principal note has long since become due and payable and now remains due and unpaid, and whereas, the said Frederick S. Behrens, trustee, has departed this life, and the Circuit Court of St. Louis county, at its June term, 1883, to-wit: On the 6th day of June, 1883, ordered and decreed that the undersigned, Delos R. Haynes, be appointed trustee to execute said trust in the place and stead of said Frederick S. Behrens, deceased, with all the powers and authority vested by said deed in said Behrens, the original trustee; now, therefore, the undersigned, at the request of the legal holder of said unpaid note, and by virtue of the authority given in said deed and by said order and decree of said court, will, on WEDNESDAY, THE 11TH DAY OF JULY, 1883,

between the hours of nine o'clock in the forenoon and five o'clock in the afternoon of said day at the eastern front door of the Court-house, in the city of St. Louis, proceed to sell the property above described at public vendue to the highest bidder, for cash, to satisfy said unpaid note with the interest accrued thereon, together with the costs and expenses of said trust.

April Term, 1883.
Friday, April 13, 1883.
The Jefferson Avenue Railroad Company, of the city of St. Louis, State of Missouri.
vs.
George Hill and his wife, Melissa Hill, Charles Frederick Hill, an infant, Amanda Hogue and her husband, John D. Hogue, Carrie M. Hill, widow of the late Benjamin W. Hill.

It appearing from the petition herein, duly verified by affidavit attached thereto, that the defendants, George Hill and his wife, Melissa Hill, Charles Frederick Hill, an infant, Amanda Hogue and her husband, John D. Hogue, and Carrie M. Hill, widow of the late Benjamin W. Hill, are non-residents of the State of Missouri; therefore, on motion of plaintiff, by attorney,

It is ordered that said defendants be notified that a civil action has been commenced against them, the object and general nature of which is to obtain a decree of partition and an order of sale of certain real estate, and a division of the proceeds thereof among the parties to said action, said real estate being described as follows, to-wit:

A lot of ground lying, being and situated in block No. 2263 of the city of St. Louis, State of Missouri; said lot of ground is known as lot No. 26 of block No. 2 of Humphrey's subdivision, and is thus more particularly described: Beginning on the south line of LaSalle street ninety-four (94) feet and eleven and five-eighths (11⅝) inches east of the east line of Jefferson avenue, in the city aforesaid, thence running east on LaSalle street twenty-five (25) feet, thence south parallel with Jefferson avenue one hundred and forty-five and ten-twelfths (145 10-12) feet, more or less, to an alley 15 feet wide, thence west on the north line of said alley twenty-five (25) feet, and thence north parallel with Jefferson avenue one hundred and forty-five and ten-twelfths (145 10-12) feet, more or less, to the place of beginning, said lot being bounded thus: North by said LaSalle street, east by lot now or formerly of James S. Carter, south by said alley, and that by other property of plaintiff.

And unless they appear at the term of this court to be begun and held at the city of St. Louis on the first Monday of June next, and on or before the third day thereof answer the plaintiff's petition, the same will be taken aginst them as confessed.

And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published according to law in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, a newspaper printed and published in the city of St. Louis.

A true copy from the record.

In the Circuit Court City of St. Louis,
April Term, 1883.
Friday, April 6, 1883.
Maria Wittmer
vs.
William Wittmer.
No. 61,034.

It appearing from the petition of the plaintiff herein, duly verified by affidavit, that the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Missouri; therefore, on motion of said plaintiff by her attorney,

It is ordered that said defendant be notified that a civil action has been commenced against him, the object and general nature of which is to obtain a decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony existing between plaintiff and defendant, on the grounds that the defendant has offered plaintiff such indignities as to render her condition intolerable, by being addicted to habitual drunkenness, by calling her opprobious names, by striking her, and that said defendant has been guilty of such conduct as to constitute him a vagrant within the meaning of the law respecting vagrants; and for an order restoring plaintiff's former name.

And unless he appear at the term of this court to be begun and held at the City of St. Louis on the first Monday of June next, and on or before the third day thereof answer the plaintiff's petition, the same will be taken against him as confessed.

And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published according to law in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, a newspaper printed and published in the city of St. Louis.

Charles Gautz
vs.
Sarah M. Gautz.
No. 61,185.

It appearing from the amended petition this day filed herein by leave of court, and duly verified by affidavit, that the defendant is a non-resident of this State, so that the ordinary process of law can not be served upon her, on motion of plaintiff, by attorney,

It is ordered that said defendant be notified that a civil action has been commenced against her, the object and general nature of which is to obtain a decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony existing between plaintiff and defendant on the ground of desertion and adultery.

And unless she appear at the term of this court to be begun and held at the city of St. Louis on the first Monday of June next, and on or before the third day thereof answer the plaintiff's amended petition, the same wil be taken against her as confessed.

And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published according to law in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, a newspaper printed and published in the city of St. Louis.

April term, 1883.
April 7, 1883.
C. N. Roberts, George E. Hardwick and W. W. Taylor, plaintiffs,
vs.
G. W. Thomas, defendant.
Attachment.

It appearing from the petition herein and the affidavit thereunto attached that defendant, G. W. Thomas, is not a resident of the State of Missouri, therefore, on motion of plaintiffs, by their attorneys,

It is ordered that the defendant be notified that a civil action has been commenced against him for the sum of two hundred and ninety-five dollars, on account of a judgment recovered by plaintiffs against said defendant, G. W. Thomas, in the County Court of Grayson county, State of Texas, on or about the twenty-first day of March, 1883.

And that his property has been attched; and unless he appear at the term of this court to be begun and held at the city of St. Louis on the first Monday of June next, and on or before the third day thereof answer to the action aforesaid according to law, judgment will be rendered against him and his property sold to satisfy the same.

And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published according to law in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, a newspaper printed and published in the city of St. Louis.

vs
William Max Kuhn.
No. 61,177.

It appearing from the petition heretofore filed here in that the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Missouri; therefore, on motion of plaintiff by attorney

It is ordered that said defendant be notified that a civil action has been commenced against him, the object and general nature of which is to obtain a decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony existing between plaintiff and defendant, on the ground that defendant has absented himself from plaintiff without a reasonable cause for the space of one year next before the filing of said petition.

And unless he appear at the term of this court to be begun and held at the city of St. Louis on the first Monday of June next, and on or before the third day thereof answer the plaintiff's petition, the same will be taken against him as confessed.
